

Rising Waters At Shawnigan Lake May Force Families To Leave

Island Highway Flooded But Still Passable

Rising lake and river waters already have forced the evacuation of several families in the Lake Cowichan district and threaten to force evacuation of at least eight families at the northern end of Lake Shawnigan as storm damage continued on Vancouver Island overnight. Favored weather conditions today brought the probability of lessening floods.

Several washouts have occurred on island roads, but the Island Highway is reported still passable although in poor condition in several places.

At Shawnigan Lake, Constable R. Ross, B.C. Police, reported the lake waters were rising very rapidly. He said there was a possibility families located near the outflow at the northern end of the lake would have to be evacuated.

Continuing heavy rains have hampered repair work on the road to Port Renfrew on the big break which was made near Kapoor camp during last week-end. It now is expected that the road will not be open again until the beginning of next week.

At Lake Cowichan, it is reported, the Cowichan River is flowing across the South Shore

Road in the village at two places. At one place the river waters are flowing across the road, through the elementary school grounds, across King George Street and back into the river, leaving the store of Walter Tiesu on a small island surrounded by nearly a foot of water.

Water on King George Street is over a foot deep.

The site of the new post office on South Shore Road is the second place where the water has crossed. Water is running right into the post office and is covering the floors of John Wortendyke's shoe repair shop and the machine shop of J. N. Jaynes.

Planning To Evacuate

Rising waters along the river and lakeshore forced at least four families to evacuate their homes late Thursday. They were Mr. and Mrs. William Shadyver, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Erle, Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Neilson and Mr. and Mrs. George Trill.

Other families moved their furniture up and away from the rising waters, and last night had been planning to evacuate. However, this morning, the water seemed to be holding steady and residents are expecting the river and lake to start receding if no more rain falls.

At Chemainus, B.C. Police reported the rising Chemainus River waters had crossed the Island Highway at Westholme, receding this morning, but leaving the highway badly broken up in some places, although cars have been able to travel over it. Water covered some of the floors of buildings at Crofton.

Youbou and Honeymoon Bay bridges are reported still to be out.

B.C. police at Duncan reported a flood over at the junction of Cowichan Bay and Trunk Road (Tennis Court Corner). Water on Trunk Road was reported higher last night than it was during last week-end's bad storm but cars were able to make their way through the water if carefully driven.

As elsewhere, waters were expected to fall off if the rains held back today.

Buses Getting Through

Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. reported its buses were able to carry on service up-island despite poor condition of the Island Highway in several spots. Condition of the highway was reported bad on the Malahat where rains attacked repair work being done. The highway also is bad at Crofton. The highway, though, was clear of floods this morning, and the only possibility of the water coming over again was seen with high tides at Chemainus.

Near Parksville, Englishman River rampaged as high winds and high tides backed the water up at the river's mouth, isolating several homes.

Further up-island, at Courtenay and Campbell River, heavy rains were recorded but no flood threat was seen.

Flooded basements and overflowing ditches were reported at Ladysmith.

Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway reported it was experiencing no trouble so far as the trains were concerned and services were in full operation.

Army Of 400 Labor To Save Homes Menaced By Floods

VANCOUVER (CP) — Army searchlights glared along half a mile of flood-raging Seymour Creek early today as 400 men sandbagged its banks to save expensive homes from damage or destruction.

Heavy rain in mountains which tower over the north shore of Vancouver Harbor poured uncontrollably through narrow, rock-rimmed river beds. Fifty families were left homeless.

Since Saturday, through southern British Columbia, early winter storms have taken 19 lives, isolated towns and villages, and caused property damage counted in the millions of dollars.

The Seymour Creek upsurge in North Vancouver, one of the seaport's suburban dormitories, was an unexpected blow to the hundreds of men fighting nature at the coast.

A less-spectacular new flood also occurred Thursday night at Port Coquitlam, 20 miles east of Vancouver on the north bank of the mighty Fraser River.

The tributary Coquitlam River

slowly outspread its low-diked banks and forced evacuation of 13 homes in low-lying areas. Sheds and small buildings were swept away.

The Fraser Valley towns of Haney, Hammond and Pitt Meadows—all of which lie feet below the Fraser's annual spring flood stage—were without water. The broken main which left them dry was to be replaced today.

British Columbia's torrential rain started last week-end. Thursday the worst was believed over when new storms brewing in the tricky north Pacific veered toward less-populated areas farther north.

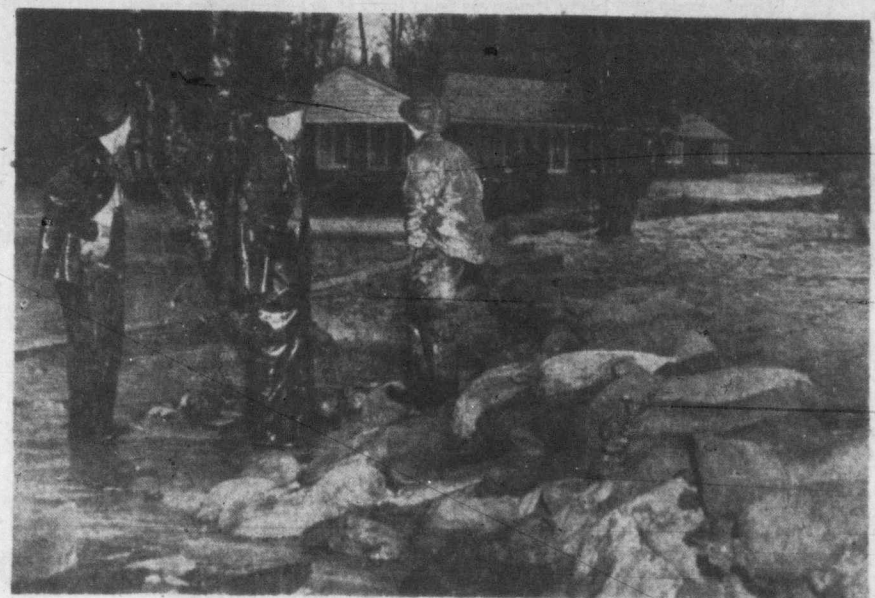

Then, Thursday night, more unpredictable rain slashed at the Vancouver area. Four hundred soldiers and civilians teamed to pile 20,000 sandbags along the threatened banks of Seymour Creek and Capilano River, a few miles farther west.

Trucks dumped gravel at 200 tons an hour.

At dawn, all dike workers were sent home.

Price Cuts Going Into Effect On Some Imported Liquors

Commissioner W. F. Kennedy of the B.C. Liquor Control Board reported today that some price reductions, resulting from devaluation of the British pound, had already been effected in British Columbia and he indicated that others would follow as new stocks went on the shelves.

The cuts in most cases would not amount to more than 10 per cent, said Mr. Kennedy. They apply mainly on rums, gins and wines brought to B.C. from the United Kingdom.

No reduction has or will be effected in the price of imported Scotch whisky as a result of devaluation. The producers, at the request of the British government, boosted prices to cover devaluation.

In Ontario it has been announced that price reductions had been effected on 38 brands of imported liquor. Mr. Kennedy was not sure how many brands would be involved here.

But British Columbians will have available the best supply of liquors since the start of the war for festivities at Christmas and the year's end. Mr. Kennedy said not only were the stocks the largest since the start of the war but the variety was also at a postwar high.

$1,000,000 Damage In Oklahoma Fire

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP) — An early-morning fire roared through a four-story hotel here today and spread to adjoining buildings, causing an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

There were no known deaths, but Fire Chief Bill Collyer said there was a possibility a few guests may have been trapped in the hotel's upper stories. Fifty-three guests were registered.

The flames destroyed a quarter of a block of buildings. Sapulpa has a population of about 18,000. It is 18 miles west of Tulsa.

British Bill On Canadian Constitution Passed Today

LONDON (Reuter)—The House of Commons today passed the British North America Act Bill through all its stages.

The bill gives to the Canadian federal Parliament power to amend the Canadian constitution in matters lying solely within the jurisdiction of that Parliament, without reference to the House of Lords and now only awaits formal Royal Assent to become law.

Philip Noel-Baker, Secretary for Commonwealth Relations, said many people felt the present situation was anomalous and might be embarrassing to Canada or Britain.

The Statute of Westminster in 1931 conferred on all the self-governing members of the Commonwealth full power to amend United Kingdom acts which applied to them, he said. But at the request of Canada this power was not applied to the British North America Act, in which the Canadian constitution was laid down.

The act, under the Canadian constitution, could at present be amended only by the British Parliament. But all parties in Britain had agreed that this situation should continue only so long as the Canadians desire.

Recalling a recent visit to Canada, Noel-Baker said: "I find that Canadians of all parties and of all provinces are conscious and proud as never before of Canada's position in world affairs and of the rights and responsibilities which it entails."

Death Accidental

PORT ALBERNI — A coroner's jury here has ruled the death last Saturday of five persons, who were occupants of a taxi which plunged into the Alberni Canal, was accidental.

Killed in the accident were Tom McDonald, driver; Ed Grand, Kris Onstad, Jean Charlton and Mrs. Ralph Trellik.

Flood Waters Rise In Local Districts

Flood waters in low-lying areas of Greater Victoria rose Thursday night when the district was swept again by gale-carrying rains.

Many basements of houses in the city, Oak Bay and Saanich were reported flooded, some of them for the first time in 30 years.

The ground has become saturated in the heavy rainfalls of the last week, and storm drains in many districts have become choked.

Nearly an inch of rain fell in the last 24 hours.

Trafalgar Survivor Scuttled In Channel

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuter)—One of the two surviving ships from the Battle of Trafalgar was scuttled today in the English Channel.

The 54-gun wooden battleship H.M.S. Implacable, launched in 1797, went down under the impact of four depth charges placed below her waterline.

The Implacable, which fought with the French fleet as the Duguay-Trouin at the Battle of Trafalgar in 1805, was accorded full naval honors.

Billion Dollar In Arms Aid For Europe Released

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion dollars worth of United States arms will begin moving to western Europe in a few weeks, now that the Atlantic Treaty countries have unanimously agreed on their grand strategy of defence.

Defence Secretary Louis Johnson arrived from Paris today to present the defence plan to President Truman and State Secretary Acheson. Johnson is the U.S. member of the defence committee of the 12-power Atlantic alliance which adopted the plan at a meeting in the French capital Thursday.

France is expected to get the lion's share of the arms and military equipment which Congress authorized to strengthen the Western European members of the alliance against any Russian aggression.

The strategic plan presumably is based on the possibility that in the event of a Russian attack on France, along with the other European continental members of the Atlantic system, would bear the brunt of the onslaught.

A communiqué issued by the defence committee at the conclusion of its meeting said it "arrived at unanimous agreement on and gave full approval to the following action:

"A. Strategic concepts for the integrated defence of the North Atlantic area.

"B. Provision of a program for the production and supply of armaments and equipment.

"C. Co-ordination of planning between the various regional groups (of countries in the alliance).

"D. The progress of defence planning of the North Atlantic treaty organization."

More Cheques Cashed

OTTAWA (BUP) — Production of motor vehicles in Canada was up 12 per cent in October over production for the same month in 1948. A total of 28,125 units was shipped from factories, compared with 25,057 a year ago last October.

20 Killed In Crash Of Brazil Air Line Plane; Two Survive

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UP)—Twenty persons died and a woman and child escaped alive when a DC-3 air liner crashed in the Brazilian wilderness, the Real (Royal) Air Line announced today.

The two-engine transport was reported to have crashed against a mountainside while circling for a landing Thursday.

First details of the crash were received today from the isolated region near Riberão Claro along the border of Sao Paulo and Parana States.

Headquarters of the Real Line said 16 passengers and four crewmen, all Brazilians, were killed. Among the 22 aboard was a child in arms.

A bare report that a woman and a five-year-old child came through the crash alive said nothing of the extent of their injuries, if any.

There are no communications with the region in which the crash occurred other than the radio contacts maintained by the air line.

The plane was on a regular scheduled flight from Sao Paulo to Jacareizinho in Parana.

The crash occurred Thursday afternoon, but the first word of it was made public early today.

Officials said none of the victims was known nationally or internationally.

The air line said it was making a thorough investigation of the cause of the crash. The headquarters of the line are in Sao Paulo.

Police Probe Death Of Boy As Result Of School Fight

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — R.C.M.P. today continued their investigation of the death of 11-year-old Douglas Oland of nearby Coxheath, who succumbed in a hospital Thursday night after a beating received in an "after-school fight" Thursday.

Only son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Oland, the grade-five student was taken home in an unconscious condition and then removed to the hospital, where he died of brain hemorrhage.

Conflicting stories on the fight were reported. Police said it was a typical schoolboys' fight between the victim and another youth in the neighborhood.

Another story, unconfirmed, said Oland was "ganged on" by three or four boys and given a beating.

A post mortem revealed a mass hemorrhage of the brain.

A 13-year-old youth believed involved in the fight, was under questioning by the police Thursday night and was expected to be questioned again today. Meanwhile, a coroner's jury was being empanelled.

M.P. Veils Insult

OTTAWA (BUP) — It was considered unparliamentary to call his fellow M.P. a windbag, so Donald Fleming (P.C.-Toronto-Eglinton) did it this way in Commons Thursday:

"I have only this comment to make on the reference made by the hon. member for Fraser Valley (George Cruickshank, a Liberal) to the subject of pipelines... if he were at one end of the pipe using his lungs and his voice, there would be no need of pressure anywhere else in that pipe."

Legality Of Communism Big Australian Election Issue

SYDNEY (BUP)—The fate of Socialism and Communism in Australia for at least the next three years will be decided in a General Election Dec. 10.

A united, free-enterprise opposition, heartened by a Conservative victory in neighboring New Zealand, hopes to unseat Australia's Labor (Socialist) government. The Socialists have governed the country since 1941.

But even more at stake is the political future of the Communist Party. The combined Opposition Liberal and Country Parties have promised to outlaw the Communist Party if they win.

Prime Minister Joseph Chifley, leader of the Labor Party, wants to give the Communist Party a continued legal place in the nation's political life. Outlawing the party would only drive the Communists underground, he contends, and he believes it better to keep them in the open.

Although the Communist Party has only one member in one of the State parliaments and none in the Federal parliament, it has wide influence in some trade unions.

Australia has trailed behind both Britain and New Zealand on nationalization. Labor contends it no longer is an issue, but the Opposition Liberal and Country Parties disagree.

The Labor government's nationalization campaign came a cropper in October, when the Privy Council in London held that government legislation to take over Australia's banks was unconstitutional.

Assize Judge Sentences 7 To Prison Terms

Sentences were passed here today by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady in six cases in the current assizes.

Sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for rape of a 33-year-old displaced person from Latvia were: Robert William Patterson, 119 Olive Street; John Frederick Erickson, 1025 Pandora Avenue; Robert James Norton, 218 Oswego Street, and Clare Ross Hamilton, 467 Gorge Road.

Sentenced to three years for breach of trust involving $3,131 was J. Percival Walls, 64-year-old ex-Victoria lawyer.

One year in prison and a $100 fine was the sentence on each of two counts against Kishen Singh, East Indian. He was found guilty of possession of narcotics and of cultivating opium poppies. Sentences are to run concurrently.

PRINTING FIRM FINED

A $300 fine was levied against the Victoria firm of J. Parker Buckle Printing Company Ltd. The company was found guilty of printing lottery tickets.

Sentence of time already spent in jail and a $500 fine, or six months in default of payment, was passed on Frederick J. Smith, city chimney sweep, found guilty of retaining a stolen calf.

Suspended sentence of two years was imposed on 18-year-old John Graham, convicted on a charge of attempted theft of an automobile here. Mr. Justice Coady remarked he was "giving him one more chance."

In passing sentence on the four youths after hearing nine character witnesses, the justice termed the circumstances surrounding the case as "sordid," and said the crime is one from which the public must be protected.

In suspending sentence on Graham, Mr. Justice Coady said he was releasing the youth on his own recognizances on the posting of a surety of $1,000. In addition he must report to a probation officer every two weeks for two years.

In addition to the rape case, character witnesses were called for the printing firm and for Smith. In the latter case, the judge said he was being lenient because the prisoner "is not of a criminal type."

Praises Fairness Of Police Evidence

Appreciation of the "good judgment and eminent fairness" of police officers in giving evidence at the current sessions of the Assize Court was voiced today by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady.

"Their work is not easy, and I feel the manner in which they have given evidence in cases so far should be mentioned with appreciation at this time," the judge said.

Lower Food Prices Bring Living Costs Down Slightly

OTTAWA (CP)—Lower food prices pushed October's cost-of-living index down one-half point, to record the third successive decline in Canada's prices barometer.

Compared with a peak of 162.3 last July, the index now stands at 161.7, the Bureau of Statistics reported today. The index is calculated on the basis, 1935-39 prices equal 100.

Prices declined in meats, eggs, fresh and canned vegetables, offsetting food-price rises in lemons, oranges and coffee, the bureau said.

Devaluation worked its way into the index, boosting the cost of United States coal and coke. The food sub-index, the most important factor in the price barometer, declined 1.7 points to 203.3.

Quebec Bank Branch Robbed Second Time

MONTREAL (CP)—Provincial Police reported today that La Banque Canadienne Nationale at St. Hugue de Bagot, near St. Hyacinthe, had been held up and robbed of an undetermined sum of money.

It is the same bank from which three men took $8,600 two weeks ago, holding up two sisters and their elderly mother, who is manager of the branch in the little village.

The three men who staged the earlier hold-up were captured within three hours and on their way to penitentiary within 16 hours. They pleaded guilty and were given terms of four and five years.

Milwaukee Ski Bowl In Cascades Burns

SEATTLE (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the big ski lodge at the Milwaukee Ski Bowl in the Cascade Mountains.

An official of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad said the loss probably would run from $100,000 to $150,000.

The lodge was opened as a scenic ski resort about a dozen years ago. It was at Hyak, on the east side of Snoqualmie Pass. It was the site of the U.S. Olympic Games team trials in the winter of 1946-47.

Freighter At Pier With Fire In Hold Rolls Over But Floats

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—A freighter with a roaring fire in her hold rolled over sharply against her dock today but remained afloat.

The sudden shifting of the Matson freighter Hawaiian Rancher from one side to the other climaxed a dramatic fight which began when the freighter made a two-mile dash to get to fire fighting equipment.

The pier appeared to hold the vessel up. Smoke still poured from her hold.

Fire was discovered in the 8,353-ton freighter in a cargo of Hawaiian-made wallboard when the vessel was in midstream.

Only casualty reported was Fire Chief Thomas M. Lane, whose head and hand were injured in laying new hose lines.

Predict Recognition Of Red China In Three Weeks

LONDON (UP)—Informed sources predicted today British recognition of the Chinese Communist regime would be announced "in two or three weeks."

They said the decision of recognition was not in any way dependent on the adjournment of the United Nations' General Assembly, but that the timing had been generally agreed upon in consultation with other Commonwealth members.

"It was agreed that further delay in recognition would be a pointless gesture," these sources said.

NO ILLUSIONS

At the same time, they said, recognition must not be taken as signifying the British government's approval of the new regime in China.

Homes Evacuated On Seymour Creek's Banks

Flood Threat Easing In Up-Island Areas

Receding waters at Shawnigan Lake and Lake Cowichan this afternoon have removed, for the present at least, the threat of evacuation which faced shoreline residents earlier today. On the island generally, flood conditions seemed to be improving as the rains held off.

This morning, Constable R. Ross, B.C. police, reported Shawnigan Lake waters were rising rapidly and threatening homes of at least eight families at the northern end of the lake where the outlet is located.

However, shortly after noon, the waters were reported falling although they had at one time come to within three inches of the top of a concrete protection wall at Cameron's Auto Court.

The stream at the northern end of the lake was swollen but seemed to be handling the outflowing water, Const. Ross said. Thursday's renewed rains hampered repair work on the Port Renfrew Road at Kapoor camp where last week-end's storms caused a washout. Repairs now are not expected to be completed before the beginning of next week.

At Lake Cowichan, where at least three families evacuated there homes Thursday night, it was reported the waters had begun receding although flood conditions still existed and the sky was clouding over again.

FLOODS NEW POST OFFICE

Cowichan River still is flowing over the South Shore Road in the village at two places, isolating a store at one point, and flowing into the new post office at another point. Residents calling at the post office had to walk on planks.

At Chemainus, B.C. police reported the Chemainus River had crossed the Island Highway at Westholme but had receded this morning leaving the highway badly broken up in some places.

Water covered some of the floors of buildings at Crofton. Youbou and Honeymoon Bay bridges were reported still out.

B.C. police at Duncan reported there had been a flood over at the junction of Cowichan Bay and Trunk Road earlier but that the road still was passable.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines reported its buses were able to carry on service up-island despite poor condition of the Island Highway in several spots, including the Malahat, where storm waters attacked repair work being done, and at Crofton.

Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway reported it was experiencing no trouble so far as trains were concerned.

Nearly 6 Inches Rain

Victoria has been deluged with 5.78 inches of rain in less than two weeks, the records at Gonzales Meteorological Observatory show.

There has not been a day free from rain since Nov. 22, and in two 24-hour periods in that time the fall has reached 1.48 inches.

The first 1.48-inch fall was on Nov. 26 and the second hit Thursday.

Heavy downpour overnight began to slacken after 4.30 this morning but gale-like winds continued.

At 5.30 a west-southwesterly was blowing at 41 m.p.h., there were gusts up to 50 m.p.h. at 7.30, and up to 60 m.p.h. at 9.30. By 11.30 it had dropped to 30 m.p.h. and it looked as though there was "smooth sailing" ahead.

River Floods Tamed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The turbulent mountain streams of the flood-stricken areas of North and West Vancouver today were tamed.

Cold weather did the trick. The mountains, which tower over the North Shore of Vancouver Harbor, were snow-capped, spotlighted by bright sunshine.

The Capilano River, dividing the suburbs, dropped 10 feet overnight, and Seymour Creek, still white-capped, is heading back to its normal course.

West Vancouver, isolated when a temporary Bailey bridge, built by the army, was swept away in the Capilano, may have a new bridge by Saturday.

A fleet of bulldozers started work to change the river's course, seeking an easier approach for a new bridge to be built by army engineers. It will be a 180-foot span.

FERRIES BUSY

Meanwhile, ferry service was maintained with the North Shore, bringing thousands each day to their work in Vancouver.

An all-night battle ended at dawn today. Four hundred army and volunteer workers, after toiling hours to build dikes, were called from duty. They had used thousands of sandbags to stem the rampaging rivers.

Nature took a hand. Snow, high in the mountains, and fast-falling temperatures, slowed the run-off.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

There was no loss of life, and no one injured, but the damage to homes, mostly in North Vancouver, will total hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It is the sun-swept valley today it was a picture of ruin in many homes.

Picturesque gardens were covered with sand, silt and rubble. Shrubs and trees, bordering the river banks, had disappeared into swirling waters.

Housewives surveyed ruined furniture, silt-covered and water-soaked in many homes.

Highway Icy

CHICAGO (UP)—The season's first snowstorm left highways coated with ice and stalled hundreds of cars through a wide area of the Midwest today.

A blinding 10-hour snowfall Thursday blanketed Chicago, snarled traffic and delayed suburban trains.

U.S. weather forecasters said the snowfall covered a belt from Toledo, O., to central Wisconsin. It covered northern Illinois and Indiana and the northeastern corner of Iowa.

Clear skies and normal temperatures prevailed over most of the area today, but rain and snow were forecast for tomorrow.

Mount Etna Showers Rain Of Black Dust On Catania, Sicily

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—People of Catania got under their umbrellas today—Mount Etna was showering black volcano dust on them.

Europe's highest volcano thundered and belched for hours, starting before dawn and ending at about 9.30 local time.

People from the grape-growing hamlets on the mountain's sides fled to this port city to report that several huge cracks had broken open around the mouth of the volcano.

Loud rumbling signalled the start of the eruption which sent smoke and cinders spewing into the air from the 10,758-foot-high volcano on Sicily's east coast.

Eruptions of Etna as far back as the fifth century B.C. are mentioned in Greek literature. Since the 16th century the volcano has erupted usually at intervals of approximately six years.

Trafalgar Veteran Scuttled In Channel

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuter)—One of the two surviving ships from the Battle of Trafalgar was scuttled today in the English Channel.

The 54-gun wooden battleship H.M.S. Implacable, launched in 1797, went down under the impact of four depth charges placed below her waterline.

The Implacable, which fought with the French fleet at the Dugway-Trouin at the Battle of Trafalgar in 1805, was accorded full naval honors.

Price Cuts Going Into Effect On Some Imported Liquors

Commissioner W. F. Kennedy of the B.C. Liquor Control Board reported today that some price reductions, resulting from devaluation of the British pound, had already been effected in British Columbia and he indicated that others would follow as new stocks went on the shelves.

The cuts in most cases would not amount to more than 10 per cent, said Mr. Kennedy. They apply mainly to rums, gins and wines brought to B.C. from the United Kingdom.

No reduction has or will be effected in the price of imported Scotch whisky as a result of devaluation. The producers, at the request of the British government, boosted prices to cover devaluation.

In Ontario it has been announced that price reductions had been effected on 38 brands of imported liquor. Mr. Kennedy was not sure how many brands would be involved here.

But British Columbians will have available the best supply of liquors since the start of the war for festivities at Christmas and the year's end. Mr. Kennedy said not only were the stocks the largest since the start of the war but the variety was also at a postwar high.

M.P. Veils Insult

OTTAWA (BUP)—It was considered unparliamentary to call his fellow M.P. a windbag, so Donald Fleming (P.C.-Toronto-Eglinton) did it this way in Commons Thursday:

"I have only this comment to make on the reference made by the hon. member for Fraser Valley (George Cruickshank, a Liberal) to the subject of pipelines . . . if he were at one end of the pipe using his lungs and his voice, there would be no need of pressure anywhere else in that pipe."

Profit From Meters

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Parking meters are proving a profitable business for this municipality. It was announced today that from Oct. 31, 1948, to Nov. 30 this year, the net profit was $8,406.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

"BABYING" OFFENDERS
THE RECENT RAID by young hoodlums upon a Junior Forest Wardens' meeting in Vancouver comes as a shocking reminder that this class of young offender is rapidly "graduating" into more serious crime.

That conclusion was also borne out in the Vancouver Juvenile Court about the same time, when the presiding judge was called upon to deal with one of the longest lists of young offenders in the history of the court.

One of the boys brought up already had a long record of petty thefts and, on being convicted of the charge of stealing two cars in one week, was committed to the Boys' Industrial Home. Two others were committed to the Juvenile Home after being found drunk and disorderly on the city streets.

"SISSES" AT WORK

ONE DISTURBING THING brought to light in the latter case was that the pair reflected an ever-increasing feeling in some juvenile circles that "only sisses work." And, although without any known sources of income, they arrived at juvenile court in a taxi.

While the foregoing situation relates to Vancouver cases it is not, unhappily, confined to that city. Here in Victoria offences committed by young people is alarmingly on the increase, as police records testify.

The same sad story is repeated in Great Britain where one-third of the stealing is done by youngsters under seventeen years of age. It is duplicated in the United States, where the authorities are deeply concerned with the growing roster of 'teen-agers found guilty of more serious crimes.

LACK OF DISCIPLINE

SUCH APPALLING CONDITIONS, of course, reflect back on the home in the final analysis. They tell the story of failure of parental discipline. To some misguided folk, discipline means harshness. What it does mean is that parents with enough concern for their children should give them guidance, and make them understand that wrong-doing will be followed by punishment. Those who fail to teach that lesson should have to answer for it themselves.

The increase in juvenile delinquents—if you can call young hoodlums of 16, 17 and 18 juveniles in these days of sneering sophistication—also reflects on the growing tendency to blame anything and anybody but the offender for his, or her, behavior.

TIED OF COMPLEXES

AS THE HEADMASTER of a reform school in Britain told a magistrates' conference, he is tired of the point of view that people should be allowed to do what they like under the cloak of some inhibition or complex—like the boy of 15 who attributed his delinquency to an inborn hatred of his mother. The official added that it is quite a common thing for boys in his reformatory to say they are not responsible for their actions. He is not the only one who is tired of the tendency to excuse all wrong-doing on psychological grounds and, at the same time, provide astute offenders, both old and young, with an easy "out."

RIGHT AND WRONG

I AM OLD-FASHIONED ENOUGH to believe that the offenders who are so subnormal or abnormal as to be unable to distinguish right from wrong are so few as to be almost non-existent—and when they are found they should be treated as such.

As to the others, if they persist in their wrong-doing—like that Vancouver juvenile with the long record of thefts—they should be given a salutary lesson in the shape of a good spanking in the presence of a panel of people who would see that no serious damage was done.

DETERRENT, TOO

THIS SUGGESTION will be received as sadistic by shocked psychologists, I know. But I maintain that a good licking would do far less damage to the recipient's complex than the knowledge that they "could get away with anything." And many a young delinquent these days looks upon commitment to a reformatory or gaol as a sort of accolade, something to brag about to "the gang."

In other words, it is time we stopped "babying" wrong-doers and reminded those entrusted with the administration of the law that punishment for crime was devised not only as a protection for the public but as a deterrent to other potential law breakers—a fact often lost sight of.

Mayhew Says Time Arrived For Provinces To Take Rent Control

It was made clear to the city by Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew today that the federal government does not consider itself in a legal position to maintain rent controls.

"It is extremely doubtful whether we have jurisdiction within the law to retain an authority which in normal times belongs to the provincial governments," the minister said in a letter to City Council.

He was replying to a resolution from the council asking that in the plan to allow rent increases of 20 to 25 per cent on Dec. 15 provision be made for relief to pensioners and persons living on low, fixed incomes.

Mr. Mayhew said he had received in the past few weeks several similar representations. He had made a study of the situation as a result and "I am more than ever convinced that the government's position in regard to rent controls is the right one."

The minister said that under the Transitional Measures Act the government had held water authority to fix rents.

But the time had arrived when provincial governments should take over rent controls in line with a plan announced recently

Future Citizen's Day Sees Key Post Taken Over By Youngsters

The job of being reeve of Esquimalt took on new and interesting aspects today as a group of "teen-agers from Esquimalt High School took over the duties of municipal councillors. The councillors, it turned out, were all girls. Elected young man elected reeve was Don Fulmer. Seated, left to right, Councillor Jean Spedding, Reeve Fulmer and Municipal Clerk Shirley Nutter. Standing, Councillors Brahma Hooper, Rae Sweeney, Ruby Ross and Jessie Shaw.

Teen-agers were filling in at key administrative posts throughout Greater Victoria today.

They were to be found in the City Hall, in outlying municipal halls, in department stores, business offices and industrial plants. Arrangements for the youngsters to "take over control" were made by the Fraternite Order of Eagles, in an effort to stimulate civic consciousness and to give a practical lesson in business to students of high school age.

At the City Hall, 18-year-old Gordon Inglis, from Victoria High School, took over in the office of Mayor George this morning and acted as chairman at a meeting this afternoon of a junior council.

"Aldermen" in attendance were Cedric Robb, Archie Macintosh, Donald Hendry, Robert Toews, Nancy Andrest, Diane Heaney, Georgina Lowe, Phyllis Cochburn and Allan Blair.

George Metcalfe took over a chief of city police and David Miller was boss for the day of the city fire department.

In Esquimalt, Don Fulmer, who took office as reeve, had his hands full presiding over a meeting of an all-girl council. Councillors were Jean Spedding, Brahma Hooper, Rae Sweeney, Ruby Ross and Jessie Shaw.

DEBATE ON FLOODS

Lively debate ensued as the council took up the question of what should be done about municipal surface drains and flood conditions.

Shirley Nutter was municipal clerk, Ted Saunders, superintendent of works; Robert Patterson and George McNutt, fire department heads, and Allan Catterall, police chief.

In Oak Bay, James Baxter took the reeve's chair while Mac Forbes and Dick Macintosh served on the police force and Ernest Alexander and James Burns, worked with the fire department.

Students of Saanich met for a council meeting this afternoon at 2.30. Tonight, all students taking part in the day's activities will be guests of the Eagles at a dance to be given at Prince Robert House.

Police Probe Death Of Boy As Result Of School Fight

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—R.C.M.P. today continued their investigation of the death of 11-year-old Douglas Oland of nearby Coxheath, who succumbed in a hospital Thursday night after a beating received in an "after-school fight" Thursday.

Only son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Oland, the grade-five student was taken home in an unconscious condition and then removed to the hospital, where he died of brain hemorrhage.

Conflicting stories on the fight were reported. Police said it was a typical schoolboys' fight between the victim and another youth in the neighborhood.

Another story, unconfirmed, said Oland was "ganged on" by three or four boys and given a beating.

$1,000,000 Damage In Oklahoma Fire

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP)—An early-morning fire roared through a four-story hotel here today and spread to adjoining buildings, causing an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

There were no known deaths, but Fire Chief Bill Collier said there was a possibility a few guests may have been trapped in the hotel's upper stories. Fifty-three guests were registered. The flames destroyed a quarter of a block of buildings.

Sapulpa has a population of about 18,000. It is 18 miles west of Tulsa.

Find Hunter Lost In North Alberta; Search For Ranger

EDMONTON (BUP)—An air-ground search for a missing hunter was completed successfully and another was under way today for a forest ranger missing in northern Alberta.

The R.C.A.F. reported that 70-year-old Henry Eckert of Grande Prairie, missing since Monday on a big game hunting expedition, was found Thursday. He was in good health at the camp of a friend in the rugged country south of Grande Prairie where he disappeared.

In the meantime, the air force, which had placed a Dakota aircraft in the search for Eckert, swung its attention to the missing forest ranger. The Dakota crew started looking for Ranger Debeney, who disappeared about 20 miles west of the area where Eckert had been lost. It was described as heavy bush country.

1950 Another Prosperous Year For Canada, Howe Tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe says 1950 is going to be another prosperous year for Canada.

Fending off a concentrated opposition attack on government trade policies, he told the Commons Thursday night that the next year will be a good one from the standpoint of economic prosperity for Canada.

Accused of being "Canada's No. 1 optimist," Mr. Howe declared he had no regrets about past predictions and stuck by his forecast.

But he was attacked sharply on trade policy by members of the Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties.

They accused the government variously of throwing overboard the United Kingdom market in favor of the United States, hesitating to accept U.K. imports and suppressing pre-election facts about the trade picture.

'JAUNDICED EYES'
Mr. Howe said anyone who sees any threat to Canada's future in her trade situation must look at things "with very jaundiced eyes indeed."

Declaring he had often been accused of being a great optimist, Mr. Howe said he believed in making statements according to the facts. A year from now, he said, it would be found that his predictions were as accurate as they had been for the last five years.

Members who took issue with Mr. Howe included Victor Quelch (S.C. Acadia, Alta.), John Blackburn (S.C. Lethbridge) and Hazen Argue (C.C.F. Assiniboia, Sask.).

To the Opposition gunning, Mr. Howe said deliveries are getting behind on oats, barley and wheat. He wondered if there would be enough flax to meet demand. The bacon contract with Britain could not be filled. That held true for eggs. Beef prices on the Winnipeg livestock market were the highest in months. There was just enough butter in Canada to see the country through the winter.

In view of all these factors, Mr. Howe said, he could not see 1950 as a poor year for Canadian prosperity.

WHEAT OUTLOOK
On wheat, the minister said, Canada was in "grave danger of being oversold" on the output of the current crop year.

Early next year, the government was going to start advertising to farmers asking them to deliver all the wheat they could, as soon as they could, so the government could get enough to meet its commitments.

SIX OF ONE...

PUBLICATION OF THE FULL BY-LAWS covering appointment of a director of administration and of a municipal manager have given voters of Victoria a definite picture of the two forms on which they will be required to ballot next Thursday. As we pointed out before, the main difference lies in the authority by which the posts would be created. The director of administration can be appointed under the Municipal Act by vote of the council and may be removed, and the system abolished, also by the decision of the council. The municipal manager must be appointed under the Municipal Act if a sufficient number of ballots so decree next week, and the office can be eliminated only by another vote of the people.

The published by-laws confirm the fact that the duties of both officials are virtually the same, with what seems to be a slight difference appearing only in the section relative to hiring, firing or suspending of civic employees other than department heads. The apparent difference there, however, is illusory, despite the phraseology. In both instances, the city solicitor has explained, hiring, firing and suspension must conform to existing city by-laws covering such issues.

The choice placed before the voter, in other words, is equivalent to that facing a child who is asked to choose between an ice cream cone and an ice cream sandwich.
The ingredients are virtually identical. The form is not.

One responsibility devolves on the enfranchised citizens. They must decide whether or not they want a new administrative office created in the City Hall to supersede the system now in force. If they do not, they should vote no to both by-laws. If they wish the change, then they should vote for the one of their choice and cast a ballot in the negative against the other. By that means they may hope to avoid confusion in the result.

AN OLD STORY

THE YUGOSLAV DELEGATE TO THE United Nations General Assembly went back 300 years to find a parallel to Russia's current campaign against his country.
Answering Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky and the Cominform resolution against Marshal Tito, the latter's spokesman referred to the historic declaration of Peter I of Montenegro, who told the Czar of Russia that "We prefer to die with sword in hand than become the slaves of any foreign power." And the speaker looked directly at Mr. Vishinsky when he added: "And that, I might remind you, sir, was 300 years ago."

The incident gives an insight into the proud nationalism that has provided a motive for Marshal Tito's struggle against the Moscow-dominated Cominform. It is a clear-cut conflict between the Kremlin's historic desire to control the Balkans, and especially a portion of the Mediterranean coast, and the equally historic determination of the Yugoslavs to remain their own masters. It was inevitable that such an attitude as the latter should find itself violently opposed to the traditional Communist system of submerging nationalism—at least non-Russian nationalism—in the Moscow-guided totalitarian structure. It should be remembered, of course, that Tito has in no sense renounced Communism. That is still his political ideal and practice. But he has defied Russia to impose its wishes on his nation, and in fighting against such attempts at imperialism he will receive considerable support from the western democracies.

But to the outsider who attended the lecture and film showing sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society and the National Audubon Society, the meeting provided further food for thought. It demonstrated this community's keen interest in natural history, conservation of wild-life,
and the great and small dramas of the outdoors. That is important.

WILL JOHN L. STARVE TOO?

IT IS DIFFICULT, AT THIS DISTANCE, to understand all the factors which enter into the labor situation for John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. His three-day week decree, however, is capable of a simple explanation. Last July, when coal stocks were piling up, the reduced work week was ordered with the explanation that the backlog of supply was throwing miners out of work. The bushy-browed leader added that the three-day scheme would stabilize the industry and provide jobs for all miners.

One other factor was apparent at that time. Owners with big stockpiles of coal were not subjected to the harassing influences of emergency in bargaining. They enjoyed a preferred position, being able to meet supply contracts while the miners felt the immediate pinch of reduced earnings. As the reserves dwindled, greater urgency was thrust upon owners to have the fuel brought again to the surface.

That condition is understandable, and equally effective today. Of slightly more nebulous character is the Lewis statement:
"If we are going to starve in this industry at any time, we will just all starve together."
The remark poses several related questions.
Does it mean that if full employment in the mines is carried on for a normal working week that surpluses are inevitably created?
And, if so, is the industry over-supplied with miners whose efficient production will result in the creation of stockpiles that enhance owners' bargaining positions? The remedy for such a situation, if it exists, would be gradually to reduce the working force until its numbers were just sufficient to do the job and guarantee continuous employment for those concerned. That, of course, would reduce union membership and result in a consequent reduction in funds derived from dues, unless the latter were raised.

One other more personal question arises:
When John L. Lewis says, "We will just all starve together," does he mean John L.
Lewis too? The J.L.L. pay cheque, despite fines, is one thing; that of the ordinary miner is another. In what position is the man who digs the coal placed through reduced earnings occasioned by a slowdown or strike before Mr. Lewis has to pull his belt up a notch or two?

TWO STRIKES ON MOSCOW

LAST SATURDAY IN THESE COLUMNS
we had occasion to comment on the failure of a Communist attempt to call a general strike throughout France. It had been hoped to tie up industry and transportation for 24 hours in a demonstration to support wage increase demands. The Communist-inspired walkout was described as a fiasco when "hundreds of thousands" ignored union leaders' orders and stayed on the job. Yesterday a similar attempt by Italian Communists failed even more strikingly. In Rome, for instance, only 10 per cent of the workers obeyed the call to paralyze industry. Throughout the country the average was only 30 per cent, although in the Red strongholds of Milan and Turin some 65 per cent of factory workers remained away from their jobs.
Railway service was running normally by noon. Many unions boycotted the strike completely and the majority of citizens paid no attention to it.

That is a far different situation from the critical conditions that existed prior to the Italian general elections of April, 1948.
Then the Communist influence was so strong that a similar strike call might have plunged the country into industrial stagnation and acute fear. There can be little doubt that the Communist sun has been eclipsed, at least for some time to come, in both France and Italy. When one considers the anxiety with which the western powers viewed both these countries a few short months ago, the progress that has been made appears in its true perspective.
Political and economic aid—in which the Marshall Plan, Western Union, the North Atlantic Pact and other devices of the democracies have played prominent parts—are showing results. Economic recovery is pacing political recovery, and the Russian imperialist threat has been correspondingly diminished.

TIME TO STAND AND STARE

BEFORE AN AUDIENCE WHICH packed to capacity one of the city's smaller auditoriums this week, Mr. Bert Harwell, of Berkeley, Cal., Audubon Society lecturer, delivered an excellent talk on the wild life of Canada's West. His description of bird and animal inhabitants of this region was lifted from the field of the ordinary not only by its content, but by his attractive reproductions of bird calls, and by moving pictures of unique beauty. Since the film he showed is to be displayed in various parts of the continent, Victoria and Vancouver Island will receive an unusually valuable degree of publicity from his work.
That, in itself, makes the event significant.

But to the outsider who attended the
Victoria Natural History Society and the National Audubon Society, the meeting provided further food for thought. It demonstrated this community's keen interest in
natural history, conservation of wild-life,
and the great and small dramas of the outdoors. That is important.

In a civilization which is ever-increasingly indicating the growth of destructive reflexes, such simple, unaffected interests provide a tonic for the mind. We do not suggest that life may be spent profitably in entire absorption in the flight of a humming bird. But a pre-occupation in such matters does seem of infinitely greater value than the all-too-common inclination to spend a preponderance of waking hours in nervous worry over possible calamities which do not occur. In the establishment of a satisfactory mental balance, a genuine interest in nature can be a worthwhile factor.

AMONG THE YEAR'S PERSONAL tragedies may be listed that of the young native of Winnipeg who, placed in charge of a construction company's stand at a London building trade exhibition, was so engrossed in reading a detective thriller that he overlooked the fact that Her Majesty the Queen was visiting his exhibit.
Too late he realized the identity of the lady in blue who was moving away with a companion after a brief glance at his stock of goods and a few enquiring looks in his direction. He may spend the rest of his life gnashing his teeth, but his great moment slipped by him. The favorable publicity that every other exhibitor craved was his—and he missed it.

That, unfortunately, is the lot of many suffering mortals in this vale of tears. Their tide was not taken at the flood, and did not lead on to fortune. Opportunity knocked, but they were wearing ear muffs. Fame beckoned, but their eyes were on a book.
Nothing can restore the situation; lamentations, remorse, self pity are without avail.
The world becomes a hard, cruel place, and the great might-have-been a mocking memory.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

JOHNSON AND THE GERMANS

UNITED STATES Secretary of Defence Louis Johnson's statement that "the United States has no intention of rearming Germany" may be true—for the present.
But the fact should be noted that Johnson's statement flies flat in the face of the professional assessment of the western military chiefs, including the French.

German rearmament has been generally regarded as a wicked project of the American and British military men. But the fact is that both French general staff chief Georges Revers and western union ground commander de Latre de Tassigny, who bitterly disagree on everything else, agree on purely military grounds that there must be some degree of German rearmament. Both recently said as much to a leading American senator with close French connections. De Tassigny's view, moreover, presumably reflects the assessment of Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery's western union staff.

THE FACT is that all the western military chiefs are convinced that the defence of western Europe is likely to prove enormously difficult in case of war, without German ground troops. They are wholly convinced that the defence of Germany itself is totally impossible without German troops.
This conviction is underlined by the news that the Russians are now preparing to build a German army of their own in their zone of Germany.

This military assessment has obvious political implications. The Germans themselves are quite as conscious as the western military men that in case of war they simply cannot be defended from the east German army and the Red Army itself by the western nations.

AS LONG AS the Germans know that they are totally exposed, there is an obvious danger, which will grow rather than decrease with time. This is that the Germans will try to make a deal, at whatever price, with their future conquerors.

A Germany controlled by or allied to the Soviet Union would be a catastrophe which could result only in war or a surrender by the west. The informed French are as aware of this as their British and American colleagues. Yet it is French opinion which makes the alternative—some degree of German rearmament—impossible "at this time." Indeed, Johnson's statement was obviously designed primarily for French consumption. Here the dilemma of western military planning comes full circle.

THE FRENCH attitude springs not only from a traditional—and natural—fear of Germany. It springs also from fear of Russia. While the Russians have been preparing to build their own German army, they have been carrying on an effective psychological offensive. Their satellite diplomats have been hinting widely that rearmament of Germany by the west would be considered a casus belli by the Soviet Union.
Try to rearm Germany, the line has been,
and the Red Army will sweep to the Atlantic.

This psychological offensive has been effective for a simple reason. The Red Army is still quite capable of sweeping to the Atlantic, and every Frenchman knows it. Moreover no Frenchman is yet convinced that the United States really intends to help make the defence of the continent feasible, or really intends to join in the defence of the continent. The French military chiefs themselves believe that in case of war the British will make for Dunkirk, and the Americans, if they ever arrive at all, for Cherbourg or another port.

THIS FRENCH defensiveness has in turn undermined the attempt to build a defence for western Europe, to which the French must clearly contribute the bulk of the ground troops—probably at least 30 divisions. And this is why the American government has recently been approached at the highest level, with requests for an informal but firm commitment to the French. This commitment would be that the American strategic concept calls for the defence of the continent, and that American forces will participate in that defence.

The fact is that the question of rear-ming the Germans is only a part of the larger question of defending the western world as a whole—including the United States. It is quite obvious that it would be suicidally dangerous to rearm the Germans while the other European nations are pathetically feeble and the U.S. is gutting its defence program. All the military experts are agreed that the first priority must be given to building real military strength in the United States and among its European allies.

BUT NO REALLY serious effort to do this is being made. And because not enough is being done to give the French military reassurance, it is necessary to make political concessions to the French. And these concessions are in turn dangerous.
For it may in the end become a hard necessity to include some measure of German rearmament within the larger framework of the western military structure, and under firm western control. This is certainly at best a dark and dangerous prospect. But the plain fact is that Russian rearmament of eastern Germany will probably in the end leave no alternative to arming western Germany. And it is about time some plain facts were faced.

Probably the most important part of the program has been
the development of new types
of guns. Most of the batteries
protecting key cities have guns far superior to the best that any country had at the end of the war. They can shoot accurately and hit extremely high targets.

As Our Readers See It

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

A few days hence the good people of Victoria will have the opportunity of voting on a by-law to provide money for an extension of the Public Library.
Although I live in Oak Bay, and therefore have no vote on the matter, I venture to express my strong feeling that the needed money should be provided. Those of us that live in Oak Bay have the privilege of using the Public Library, and it seems to me obvious that all four municipalities should participate in furnishing the necessary funds, because our municipality has no library of its own.

The Public Library, the gift of Andrew Carnegie, has grown from 1,000 book borrowers in 1906 to 27,600 in 1949. The stock of books has been increased from 4,000 to 80,000. The daily average circulation was 40 in 1906, and is 1,258 today. The staff has been enlarged from three to 28;
and, having come in frequent contact with the members of that staff, I know how kind and intelligent they are. The building occupied by the library was constructed to hold 15,000 volumes;
now it holds 98,671 volumes.
When it was built the population of Victoria was only 23,800; now it is 103,000. The present shelf space is 10,000 linear feet, whereas at least 18,000 feet are required. Such are the facts.

Probably nobody in Victoria has used libraries as much as the present writer; a few years ago I dedicated one of my books
"To the librarians, whose kindness and courtesy the author desires to acknowledge gratefully." Yes, I have a warm feeling of gratitude to Miss Clay and to her assistants in the Public Library for the facilities accorded to me. It is not too much to say that the status of culture in a community is measured by the facilities given by its public library. The famous library at Alexandria, built by the Ptolemys in the fourth century B.C., bore the inscription:

"The Medicine of the Mind." ...
No better exhibit of our democracy exists than the chamber in which our citizens, young and old, are engaged in acquiring the knowledge garnered on the shelves, in taking medicine for the mind, in beholding the soul of the immortal past, enjoying the company of the master spirits of humanity, and holding high converse with the mighty dead. T. A. RICKARD,

RENT CONTROLS

Rent control has been a godsend to tenants, as everyone knows, but what seems to be overlooked is the great boon it has been to landlords. If the controls had been lifted a few years ago many landlords would have sold their property at prices up to a third under prevailing prices.

They might very well be a little grateful.
On the other hand, tenants who expect controls retained until supply and demand reach a better balance should be prepared to accept reasonable adjustments in ceilings. Rent control is no longer a case of freezing living costs but rather a measure to prevent exploitation —similar to government imposed ceilings on interest rates.

I, a tenant, consider recent increases reasonable, with one reservation: I wonder why landlords who do not wish to give a lease should be deprived of the increase. J. W. GILBERT

DELIGHTED—BUT!

When I first visited Victoria a few years ago I found it the most enchanted place I had ever seen and so I decided to bring my family to this "Garden of Eden."

I liked the administration and above all the people who are all, so very human, so kind and thoughtful, the friendliest I have ever encountered. Everyone greeted us (even though a perfect stranger) with a smile or a kind word.

My one disappointment was the radio programs. I had been warned to expect mostly recordings or as they called it "canned music," but soon found out it was even worse.

Now we are going to have an other radio station which could be wonderful if only they would give us real music—local talent instead of recordings.

It is a well-known fact that no one cares for advertising, but if we do hear a real good program (not recorded) we do take note of the sponsor and naturally patronize him. Otherwise we turn it off.

So far I know of only one sponsor in Victoria who has the foresight to put on a real honest-to-goodness musical program well worth listening to, then I put my radio away in moth balls for the rest of the day.

Wake up merchants of

Keeping Pace With New Dangers

By DOUGLAS LARSEN, NEA Staff Correspondent

AMERICA now has an extremely efficient anti-aircraft gun network protecting all key industrial cities and defence areas. Its creation has been one of the most secret and successfully-executed postwar defence plans.

COMPLETE SHIFT

Only a few key local officials in the cities and areas protected have realized what was being done in the last few years. It involved a complete shift of men and guns from one section of the U.S. to another, to match the drastic change in interior defence requirements which occurred after World War II.

Although details are top secret it is generally known that the danger of air attack from the east and south lessened after the war, while danger of attack from the north and northwest has increased—with Russia becoming the only likely possible enemy.

Probably the most important part of the program has been
the development of new types
of guns. Most of the batteries
protecting key cities have guns
far superior to the best that any country had at the end of the
war. They can shoot accurately
and hit extremely high targets.
The high-speed, high-altitude planes developed since the war have not outrun the progress in anti-aircraft gun development.

Contrary to popular notion, and progress in development of rocket-type shells and guided missiles has been good.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the whole operation has been the excellent co-operation on it by navy, air force and army. All three services have had vital roles in drawing the blue-print, under the direction of army's Maj.-Gen. W. R.
Schmidt.

UNIFIED COMMAND

Army's experts have done the bulk of the spadework. But in case of actual attack the air force immediately assumes command of the whole organization.
This includes command of anti-aircraft guns aboard the navy's ships which happen to be in the defence zone affected.

COURAGE WOULD FAIL

Windsor Star

A citizen of Bombay has gained fame by allowing a full-grown elephant to step on his chest and stomach, but even he probably would quail at having to ride home in a crosstown bus around 5:30 p.m.

The newly-developed guns are almost completely automatic.
They find their targets with radar, stay on them with the same radar, and fire at extremely high speeds automatically. One of the new types is described as having "very high altitude capabilities." Another new gun, called the "sky-sweeper," fires a 75-mm. shell and is described as firing to "comfortably high altitudes." Its rate of fire and accuracy are amazing, it is said.

Being so completely automatic, the new weapons lend themselves very well to civilian defence. General Schmidt reveals that a few officers and a few trained technicians, with the help of numbers of civilians, could effectively man many batteries.

DEFENCES READY

General Schmidt also reveals that for the first time in the history of anti-aircraft gun development, future planning is geared to expected advances in aircraft. Researchers in the field are now confident that when the supersonic airplane comes into operational use, an anti-aircraft gun capable of shooting it out of the air will be ready at the same time.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

THE ALLIED policy of keeping Germany disarmed indefinitely already seems to be heading into complications.

This column the other day called attention to the reiteration in Europe by Defence Secretary Louis Johnson of the United States and Gen. Omar Bradley, U.S. Chief of Staff, that the U.S. has no intention of rear-ming Germany. I commented that this created a strange situation, since Germany is being made an integral part of the western European set-up and must be protected, and added:

VITAL BASE

"Should another war develop between west and east Europe western Germany presumably would be in the front-line defences of the west. What happens then to the maintenance of German military impotence? It seems a fair guess that the Reich would become not only a vital base for operations of the western allies, but might be invited to call German manpower to the colors for defence."

Since that writing, the Sozial-demokrat, official newspaper of the Socialist Democratic Party in western Berlin, has charged that the Communists are creating a people's army of 360,000 men in the Russian zone to impose their politics even after the Russian military forces withdraw. Such an army would mean one armed Red for every 50 persons in the Soviet zone—an ominous sounding figure.

The Russian army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau made the counter-charge that Britain and the U.S. are creating a 180,000-man police force in their zones, and that the French are recruiting 7,000 German police weekly.
The western allies retort that the total police force for all three zones is 113,000, which is one policeman for each 416 persons.

GIVES PAUSE

There we have a situation which gives pause for consideration. It is a position in which there could be a conflict between political and military thought. Not to put too fine a point on it, there are differences of opinion in some important quarters as to whether Germany should be rearmed in the interests of general peace.

The political viewpoint broadly speaking has been that German disarmament is essential to the maintenance of peace.

There is a large school of military experts among the western allies who maintain that from the practical standpoint Germany should be rearmed defensively.

FUEL FOR OTTAWA

The proposed flood of letters from Quebec tenants to Ottawa protesting rent hikes should serve at least one useful purpose, even if legislators take no official action regarding them.
An expected total of 200,000 daily should go a long way toward solving the winter fuel problem on Parliament Hill. It's an ill wind indeed.

BAN ON BRAINS

Winnipeg Free Press Canada's policy in regard to displaced persons has been generally good but in one respect it has fallen down badly. That is on the question of specialists.
We have been only too willing to take those who were fit and young; we have been less willing to take individuals of talent who were unable to handle hard physical work.

In a pamphlet issued recently,
the International Refugee Organization gave some facts about these people—26,000 of them, described as among "the ablest and best-trained men and women in Europe," who are victims of what I.R.O. rightly calls a "ban on brains."

ON THE JOB

Montreal Star
It is not very often that the Senate gets, as the saying is,
all steamed up about something.
When it does that's news.

But it did so a day or so ago on the matter of daylight saving, of all things.

What some of the debaters wanted was to have daylight saving made compulsory and nationwide. The other side insisted that it should be abolished altogether in the interests of the farmer.

We think it wise of the Senate to have debated this particular matter, if for only one reason.
Too many people seem to think that the Senate is the one place where time does not matter.
Now they know better.

Nanaimo City Hall To Cost $127,925

NANAIMO—General contract for the construction of a new city hall in this city has been awarded a local contractor, D. Robinson. Mr. Robinson's bid on the job was $127,925.32.

The accepted tender was not the lowest submitted but was recommended by Ald. Charles Wharton, who said all tenders had been carefully scrutinized by council's building committee and Robinson's considered the right choice.

Thomas B. McArthur of Nanaimo is architect for the building.

B.C. Christmas Trees Enroute To 2,000,000 U.S., Hawaii Homes

Young sturdy Douglas fir trees from poor lands in the Kootenays, make just about the best Christmas trees possible. Here at a depot near Cranbrook the trees are being trimmed and bundled for shipment.—(Photo by Paul Johnson, B.C. Forest Service)

British Columbia this year will contribute to the success of Christmas in about 2,000,000 homes in the United States and Hawaii through exports of Christmas trees.

Young Douglas fir trees which are being cut mainly in the Kootenay and Prince George districts and which make as fine Christmas trees as any, now are moving by truck and rail to almost all parts of the United States and by ship to Hawaii. B.C. Christmas trees are favored over all others for export because they are bushy, can be easily bundled and their needles seem to stay on better than those of other Christmas tree species.

Last year the 2,130,071 Christmas trees which British Columbia exported were valued at $470,000 but this year the value to the growers and cutters will probably be somewhat less. According to officials of the B.C. Forest Service here the price has slipped by about 25 per cent.

Last year B.C.'s trees were valued, on the average, at about 22 cents each, cut and ready for picking up by truck in the forests. The trees retail for anything up to $1 a foot in the U.S. According to officials of the B.C. Forest Service which handles the permits for Christmas tree cutting on Crown lands, the cutting this year is about on a par with that of last year. No statistics or even estimates are available here on the 1949 cut but officials believe shipments are holding up. Last year's shipments from British Columbia were the largest on record.

CALIFORNIA BIG BUYER

Many other areas of Canada and the U.S. produce Christmas trees in abundance but the B.C.

trees, because of their superior qualities, seem to be able to compete almost anywhere in the U.S. While they actually go to all parts of the country, California is one of the largest buyers of B.C. trees.

The Hawaii market is traditional. B.C. trees have the advantage of being as close as any to that market and since the needles seem firmly attached to the trees they are ideal for the long shipment.

Perhaps peculiarly the main lumber producing districts of the province are not the major Christmas tree producing areas. The Vancouver forest district, which includes all Vancouver Island and which produces the lion's share of the wood used in B.C. forest industries and export, is a small Christmas tree producer. More Christmas trees are shipped out of the Nelson forest district than any other.

The Kootenays are ideal for Christmas tree production because much of the land is not satisfactory for production of mature trees for lumber or for any other form of agricultural production. Poor soil tends to produce a bushy tree. The more rigorous climate than on the coast also results in a less lanky tree.

SUSTAINED YIELD

Christmas tree production has a legitimate place in the B.C. Forest Service's sustained yield programs. Farming of trees is encouraged through licenses covering Christmas tree growing lands adjacent to farms.

And, according to officials, Christmas tree growing can be a profitable business. The forest service encourages sustained yield production of

has two seconds and a third to his credit.

The horsemanship here is not rated as highly as the Royal in Toronto, the National Horsemanship in New York or the Harrisburg, Pa., show. But it has a western flavor lacking in the others.

A feature of every performance is a cutting horse demonstration in which western ponies ridden under western tack by cowpokes show how a steer is cut out of the herd for branding.

The little western horses pivot and skid as the steers wheel and dodge, trying to return to the herd. The riders, mounted western style with a long stirrup and straight legs, hold their reins loose, letting them flap at the horse neck, but the ponies respond to the slightest touch of the line.

No One At Fishwheel 'Gold' Site Now

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Whatever became of the Fishwheel gold strike?

Howling Arctic winds and sub-zero temperatures have the answer to that question clutched closely to their frigid bosoms.

Old-timers Sam Gamble and Ed Farrell, who held hopes of a genuine "strike" up until last week, have returned to Fairbanks.

They declare wryly that nothing can be determined until spring, but "prospects look pretty bleak."

Drilling operations recently stopped at 50 feet when warm chinook winds thawed the Yukon River ice and backed water over the drill holes.

The strike started in October when Clifton Carroll found a few nuggets attached to the mud on the axle of his fishwheel some 30 miles south of Fort Yukon.

Mayor Hopes For Fire-Police Unity For Greater Victoria

Mayor Percy George said Thursday night he hoped the day was not far distant when police and fire departments of the four municipalities of Greater Victoria would be amalgamated.

He was addressing a meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club at Club Sirocco.

Crime and fire knew no boundaries, Mayor George said, and the sooner all the forces of the municipality were united the better it would be for everyone. He noted that a measure of amalgamation had taken place in water, schools, health and juvenile detention home.

Formation of the Greater Victoria Water Board, mainly through efforts of former alderman F. N. Cabell and himself, would be recorded as one of the most important events in Greater Victoria's history, the mayor predicted.

If the water board had not been formed, he added, city ratepayers would have had to bear alone an estimated $5,000,000 debt for renovation of the system.

MUST HAVE DIRECTOR

Mayor George told the clubmen the city must have a director of administration or a city manager.

"I don't care whether the people choose a city manager or a director of administration, but for goodness' sake let's have one of them," he said.

The prerogatives and rights of a city manager and a director were identical for all intents and purposes, he said.

Poundage Lively Toronto Topic As Broda Benched

TORONTO (CP)—A lot of "stylish stouts" must be looking anxiously at the scales today.

This business of reducing weight was raised to front-page news in Toronto when managing director Conny Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs benched five of the National Hockey League players, warning them to get down to fixed poundage by Saturday "or else."

It became a topic far wider than the sports pages when the dieting progress of the hockey players was accompanied by various pictures showing efforts to take off excess poundage.

One prominent Toronto nutritionist said the way to combat overweight is by will-power. "Overweight is caused solely by eating more food than is needed," he said.

This flat statement was amplified somewhat. The nutritionist said physical exercises are no good. "The problem is that people, exercise, increase their appetites, and eat more than is necessary."

Slenderizing pills "merely obscure the issue," according to this expert. Root of the overweight problem is calories. If you're overweight and want to cut down, you've got to cut out the high-calory foods, such as cakes, pastries, potatoes and butter.

BRODA AT WORK

Most prominent of the five Toronto Leafs now busily reducing is veteran goal-tender Walter (Turk) Broda. He was ordered to reduce from 197 pounds to 180 pounds by Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Broda, wife of the goalie from Brandon, is one of thousands who don't think reducing is funny.

Because Broda has been reducing, the whole family suffers. To spare the Turk's feelings, the whole family does without fattening desserts, but the odd treat is sort of sneaked in for Turk's two little daughters.

Edinburgh Would Be Host To 1950 General Assembly

NEW YORK (UP)—The City of Edinburgh, capital of Scotland, soon will make a formal bid to be host to the next regular session of the United Nations' General Assembly in 1950, its mayor said Thursday.

Sir Andrew Murray, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, said he already had conferred with U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, General Assembly president, on the invitation.

Sir Andrew, in the United States on a speaking tour, plans to return to Scotland next week to assemble detailed information on the city's facilities and then will submit the formal request.

He said Edinburgh has ample meeting halls, office space, transportation and other facilities for handling the international meeting.

Cuba and Mexico also have expressed interest in being host to the session, scheduled for next fall.

Bang-up Yule Feat For Troops

Canadian soldiers who eat their Christmas or New Year's dinners in camp can look forward to a "bang-up" Yuletide feast complete with all the traditional trimmings and a one-pound slab of turkey.

Mess tables, authorities promised them this week, will also be loaded with fruit cocktails, cranberries, nuts, Christmas cake, oranges, plum pudding and hot mince-meat pies.

Other extras, such as eggs, butter, lemons, mixed peel, raisins and candied cherries, necessary in preparing the feast, also have been authorized.

In many camps the old military custom of the officers and senior N.C.O.s serving the men also will be put into effect.

$14,000 In Awards For Promotion Of Health And Safety

Two annual awards, one for $10,000 and the other for $4,000, have been established to stimulate greater interest in public health and safety, according to information received here for distribution to various organizations throughout Greater Victoria.

The awards have been established by the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association of Omaha, Nebraska, according to an announcement by J. V. Skutt, president.

The $10,000 award is to be given annually to the individual in Canada, the U.S., Alaska or Hawaii who makes the greatest contribution each year to the health and safety of the people in his or her country.

The other award is a $4,000 scholarship as first prize in a nation-wide oratorical contest among juniors and seniors of high schools to be conducted each year, the subject of which will be "Live Safely; Live Happily." The high school which produces the winning student will receive a special award of $1,000.

Mr. Skutt announced the awards at the company's annual conference of managers and top executives at Mutual's home office in Omaha. More than 300 from every section in Canada, the U.S., Hawaii and Alaska attended.

The $10,000 award will be known as "The Dr. C. C. Criss Award," in honor of the company's founder. The public is invited to send nominations for this award to the Criss Award Committee, care of Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association, Omaha, Nebraska.

The $4,000 scholarship oratorical contest will be conducted during the school year of 1950-51.

Finds Motorist Drove Boy On Bike Into Ditch By Road

Motorist Frank W. Marsh was found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving and pleaded guilty in Saanich Court to assaulting a 15-year-old boy by spitting in the lad's face.

He was remanded one week for sentence.

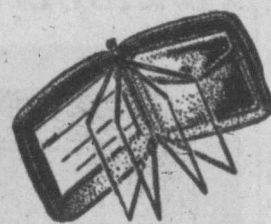

According to testimony of Marsh, Young Royston had been annoying his children for years and also spitting in their faces.

Marsh said that on Nov. 18 he spat in Royston's face as the bicycle-riding boy was passing his stopped car in Mount Newton Crossroad. The driving incident immediately followed this. Royston said Marsh, coming behind him with the car, swerved suddenly "and to avoid being hit I ran the bicycle into the ditch." The boy said he became scared.

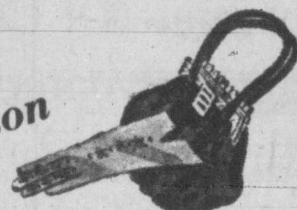

Marsh told the court that he guessed Royston thought "I was going to kill him and I wouldn't do anything like that." The motorist thought the boy became frightened by the noise of the car coming up the hill and headed for the ditch, not because of any swerving of the car.

However, Magistrate Hall said that in reviewing all that had been told the court "I am satisfied that you were driving in such a way as to convey to the boy if he did not get out of your way you would strike him." Marsh admitted the spitting incident.

My Three Years In Moscow

By Lieut.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith

Diplomats Of Communist Satellites Unanimous War With Russia Inevitable

Installment No. 25

Just before leaving Moscow during the latter part of 1948, a year of disturbing events and increasing tensions, I took a quiet and informal poll of the most experienced and best informed foreign representatives in Moscow on the probabilities of future peace or war between the Soviet orbit and the West. I was particularly interested in the views of the ambassadors and ministers representing the Soviet satellite nations, and as a direct approach to them on such a vital subject would have been difficult, I obtained their views through an intermediary, a "neutral" chief of mission.

While the opinions of Westerners varied, those of the Communist satellite diplomats were practically unanimous. They all expressed the opinion that it was impossible for the two systems to live together in peace and that a clash was inevitable. They foresaw two possible exceptions. One was that the capitalist United States, as the result of the long-predicted economic collapse or for other reasons, would give in and withdraw from Europe. The other was the possibility of a change in the Stalinist interpretation of irreconcilable hostility between the capitalist and Communist systems, which they felt would be accompanied by a change in the foreign policy of the Soviet Union. None of the satellite representatives attached much importance to the second alternative. Their estimates of the possible time factor differed considerably.

Some said as would come "when the Soviet Union is prepared." Others estimated that hostilities might be expected in five, 10 or 15 years. The latter, I thought, obviously were thinking of the present series of five-year plans as a gauge of Soviet industrial preparedness.

The more moderate thinkers did not consider that war necessarily would occur in the near future, and one or two thought in terms of 25 or 50 years or even longer.

All gave the impression of believing that the initiative would rest with the Soviet Union, thus paying an unintentional tribute to the basically pacific policy of the United States and the other Western democracies.

This unanimity of opinion among the Communists was not unexpected, as it was a reflection of the current party line, but it should be nonetheless alarming to our part of the world, which longs and plans for peace, to realize that the rulers of a large segment of the human family actually seem to believe profoundly in the inevitability of conflict.

SOVIET WAR PSYCHOSIS

At present, beyond question, there appears to exist a war psychosis among Soviet leaders. The constant and violent charges with which they assail the West are simply a manifestation of the Communist characteristic of loudly accusing others of the acts they themselves are committing or intend to commit.

Some time ago the famous English psychoanalyst, Dr. Ernest Jones, writing in "The New Statesman and the Nation," presented in the following words an excellent analysis of this apparent psychosis:

"The U.S.S.R. (i.e., their rulers) apparently apprehend the existence of danger in the outer world. They observe that many people in the Western world disapprove of both their internal and external political actions and furthermore distrust their intentions. This would in itself justify a degree of concern, and possibly, some heart-searching. But there is a wide gap between knowing oneself to be disliked and believing that one's life is in danger. The frequent references in leading articles to Russia's 'natural anxiety' must, therefore, be said to raise a very debatable point. I venture the opinion that no one in the Western world, except perhaps a Communist, considers that either America or Britain is likely to attack the U.S.S.R.; geographical, military, political, economic and above all moral considerations render such a contingency extremely remote. Yet all the evidence... points to the conclusion that the U.S.S.R. (again, their rulers) feel this contingency to be very probable. If we, who ought to know something about the likelihood of our intentions, are convinced they are mistaken, then we are bound to conclude that the greater part of their apprehension arises from internal sources—to put it plainly, from unavowed or half-avowed aggressive tendencies of their own which they 'project' on to the Western world."

"All this does not, of course, mean that the U.S.S.R. desires war or intends to bring it about. In all probability they would be well content with what has recently been termed the 'fruits of war,' with obtaining, free of opposition, all they may want. But it is a dangerous game to postulate the absence of all opposition, or to defy it. It is what the Germans did. Apart from a few irresponsibles who longed for the excitement of war, most Germans, including the Nazis, would have been quite content to absorb peacefully first Poland, then the Ukraine, then the rest of Europe and Russia, and finally the U.S.A.... One further point, the main one: It is of the very nature of aggression derived from internal sources (with the dependent anxiety) not to be influenced, i.e., appeased, by either concessions or successes in the outer world. Its intrinsic insatiability forbids this; vide Hitler. Only definite opposition can break in on the world of fantasy and restore that of reality. Whether it be more advantageous to make this inevitable stand at a time when war-weary people might prefer sanity to bellicosity or to wait until the nations are refreshed and re-equipped it is a question for statesmen to decide."

1939 PREDICTION

At the time I saw Dr. Jones' interesting analysis, I was reading a remarkable document—the book written in 1939 by the French observer, de Custine, which I have quoted in previous articles. One paragraph of de Custine's book strikes the modern reader with terrific impact. It says:

"An immense, inordinate ambition, the kind of ambition which can take root only in the soul of an oppressed people and be nourished only on the misery of an entire country, is now astray in the hearts of the Russians. This essentially aggressive nation lives in a state of submissiveness so degrading that it seems to be expiating in advance at home its expectation of tyranny abroad over other men. The glory and the booty to which it looks forward turn its thoughts away from the shame to which it is being subjected; and in the hope of washing himself clean of his impious sacrifice of public and personal liberty, this kneeling slave fills his dreams with visions of world domination."

There is a direct analogy between the analysis of the political philosopher of 1939 and the modern psychoanalyst. For us, the vital question is: are the Russians driven inexorably by their ancient heritage and their modern anxieties toward the abyss of war and conquest, or, as others believe, is the Kremlin's "war scare" campaign only feigned for reasons of politics, both internal and external?

Three years of living with this problem brought us in Moscow to the conclusions that:

Soviet policy had always been directed toward the ultimate goal of world revolution and Communist world domination. This is still the policy of the Kremlin, and will continue to be, so far as can be foreseen in the future.

The Soviet Union is not likely to resort to deliberate military aggression in the immediate future if the Atlantic pact nations do not waver in the positive application of their program. The U.S.S.R. leadership is not likely to gamble without favorable odds. The Soviet Union's present line of internal and external policies seems to be based on the expectation of peace for several years.

GREAT RUSSIANISM—Nicholas Lenin, above, developed with Stalin the organizational basis of the so-called Marxian Communism on the foundation of age-old Czarist Russian traditions of despotic power and absolute control. Today this system of Communism is Great Russianism.

The Kremlin is confident that the Soviet Union is safe from attack, and has recently adopted several lines of action that actually weaken the Soviet Union for the time being in order ultimately to be stronger for the inevitable conflict in which the Soviet leaders continue to believe.

FEARS FOSTERED

The fear of imminent war has been deliberately fostered for the past three years by the Soviet government and its propaganda agencies in order to impede the economic recovery of the West to spur the Soviet people to greater industrial effort and to hide present Soviet weaknesses.

The resurrection of the Comintern in its new Cominform cloak, the aggressive attitude of the Soviet delegations at international conferences and the violent anti-Western propaganda campaign in the Soviet orbit all confirm that, despite soothing statements to the contrary, the Kremlin has not given up its basic aim, the defeat of capitalism and the conquest of as much of the world as possible.

The futilities of Soviet statesmen and the Soviet press against imperialism, aggression, warmongering, interference in internal affairs and alleged attempts to gain world domination so accurately reflect Soviet practices, policies and aims that one sometimes wonders why they insist on constantly calling attention to the fact.

TENETS FUNDAMENTAL

There have been many fluctuations in Soviet tactics during the past twenty years, but the more one studies Soviet statements and policies the more one realizes how fundamental and deep-seated are the basic tenets of Leninism-Stalinism and how antagonistic they are to the aims, desires and hopes of Western democracy. Despite many window-dressing declarations to the contrary, a review of the statements of party leaders and spokesmen at party gatherings during the past twenty years reveals the consistency of Soviet thought: fundamental hostility to Western democracy, capitalism, liberalism, social democracy and all other groups and elements not completely subservient to the Kremlin. The never-changing objective was outlined by Stalin in his speech on the tenth anniversary of the revolution in 1927, when he said that the Soviet Union must be made "the prototype of the future amalgamation of the toilers of all countries in a single world economy."

Speaking to a visiting American labor delegation in 1927, Stalin said:

"... In the future progress of development in international revolution, two world centres will be formed: the socialist centre, attracting to itself all the countries gravitating toward socialism; and the capitalist centre, attracting to itself all the countries gravitating toward capitalism. The struggle between these two centres for the conquest of the world economy will decide the fate of capitalism and Communism throughout the whole world."

I have often pondered Stalin's 1927 prediction, and always the question arose in my mind whether Stalin was indeed able to penetrate the future through the Marxian dialectic or whether and to what extent he was the prisoner of a slavish and unquestioning devotion to Communist ideological concepts. I have come to the conclusion that the second alternative is in fact correct; that Stalin and his regime are driven inexorably by the necessity of the maintenance of power and of the fulfillment of Communist ambitions deliberately to say and do the things that would bring about in fact the world situation envisaged by Communist dogma.

RUSSIA AT CROSSROADS

At the end of the Second World War, the Soviet government stood at a crossroads. The Soviet Union had gained not only awe and respect as a national power but also legitimacy and acceptability. A great reservoir of good-will for Russia existed among practically all the peoples of the world. The Soviet Union might well have lived in peaceful possession of its wartime conquests and gains, much of which she owed to her grateful and trusting allies. Had she chosen to play the international game co-operatively, these gains today would be little less than those she now possesses, and they would have been securely held in a relatively calm and peaceful world.

Instead, the Soviet government deliberately chose the opposite course, the course of doubly insuring and heavily exploiting its gains of rejecting and antagonizing its wartime allies, of preparing the Soviet peoples for future conflict and of redoubling efforts to increase the scientific and industrial war potential of the U.S.S.R.

When I left the Soviet Union, wartime co-operation with the capitalist world was being portrayed by Soviet propaganda as an unholy alliance, and the successful outcome of the war as attributable solely to the might of the Soviet armed forces, both in the European and Pacific theatres. In fact, to read the Soviet press in 1949, one might well gain the impression that the United States, Britain and France had been allied not with the Soviet Union but with Hitler. The Kremlin's concept of the divisions of the world into two great warring camps not only justifies but absolutely requires the tightest possible organization and control of their own camp.

MAKING REVOLUTION ONLY

I believe two factors impressed me more than any others as having fundamental influence on the organization of the Soviet Union itself, of the Soviet satellite areas and of world Communism as a tool of the Kremlin. The first is that all the organizational concepts are Russian. It is essential to bear in mind that Marx and Engels were historical analysts preoccupied almost exclusively with the question of when and how to make a revolution. They gave very little thought to what would happen if and when that revolution should take place and be successful. In all the millions of pages he wrote during his lifetime, Marx just once mentioned the phrase "dictatorship of the proletariat." The Russian revolutionaries adopted it for their ideological propaganda; but they have effectively proved in practice as any reasonable man could discover by a bit of historical research and a few minutes of thought, that a dictatorship by definition is unlikely to be more than one man and has never been known to encompass more than a limited oligarchy.

Consequently, the organizational basis of so-called Marxian Communism is purely Russian and was developed by Lenin and Stalin on the basis of age-old Czarist Russian traditions of despotic power and absolute control. It would be a great mistake to fail to appreciate this or to be misled into thinking that any system of government could conceivably issue from the dark depths of Russian despotic history that could really understand the hopes and aspirations of the Western states, whose concept of government has issued from the great progressive and liberal traditions that have marked the steady rise of Western civilization.

It is very necessary to keep in mind when considering Soviet objectives and intentions that for all practical purposes Communism today is Great Russianism.

PARTY IN COMPLETE CONTROL

The second factor is the complete control of policy that is exercised by the Bolshevik party. The government, the various economic administrations and the innumerable social organizations are operational or service organs. They have little to do with the determination of real policy.

Throughout her history Russia has been a backward, poor and ill-developed country. She has repeatedly paid for this backwardness in the suffering she has endured at the hands of foreign invaders. The political effect of this background on the thinking of the present rulers of the Soviet Union has been profound.

Russian poverty has persisted to the present day. To understand the policy of the Soviet government, one must bear in mind that its struggle to put itself on a footing of economic equality with the Western world has been desperate in the fullest sense of the word. In this desperate struggle, the driving force has been the fear of defeat in war.

Hence the importance of the corollary question of security. In the past, Russia has suffered severely from the lack of natural defence frontiers to protect her from the incursions of hostile people upon her borders. These borders have changed with the ebb and flow of Russian success in war and, since defence in depth has been Russia's easiest method of wearing out her foreign invaders, she has had a tendency to push out her frontiers as far as possible whenever she has been in a position to do so.

GEOGRAPHIC SECURITY

Many years ago, Lord Palmerston described the impelling effect of this urge for geographic security that has been a constant factor throughout Russian history. He put it this way:

"It has always been the policy and practice of the Russian government to expand its frontiers as rapidly as the apathy or timidity of neighboring states would permit, but usually to halt and frequently to recoil when confronted by determined opposition; then to await the next favorable opportunity to spring upon its intended victim."

Now a new and quite different problem has been added by the Communist party's preoccupation with its own security. Its members form a minority group, numbering not more than one-thirtieth of the population. To retain power, the Communists resort to means as ruthless as those by which they acquired it, and they carry with them always the sense of insecurity that haunts those who have usurped power and who retain it by force. As keen students of history, they have always been on the watch for counter-revolution.

To protect themselves, they have established a massive police system, and even though the position of the party has grown enormously stronger as the result of victory in war, it cannot yet feel completely secure, nor can it relax its precautions. Their lives depend upon retaining office. They have used terrorist methods and imposed great privation upon the mass of people of the Soviet Union. They are aware of a widespread discontent with the hardships of life.

But the chief causes of the party's obsession with security have been directly or indirectly connected with the fear of war, foreign or civil. In the first place, there was the fear that Russia would inevitably be defeated if she were involved in a major war before she had built up her strength. She had no margin of safety. She was vulnerable, and the party knew it. In the second place, there was the fear that if the outside world knew too much about Russia's weakness and her ultimate objective, an effort might be made to crush the Soviet system before it was too late. Thirdly, there was the conviction that the capitalist world was irrevocably hostile to the Soviet Union.

Weaving Not Only Hobby But Outlet For Personality Expression, Say Enthusiasts

Weave your worries away! If you are tense with the pace of today, find it hard to relax and want an outlet for your individuality and personality, then handweaving and spinning is the job for you, according to such enthusiasts as Mrs. Sydney Pickles and Mrs. William P. Rankin.

You will find them down in Uganda Room of Prince Robert House where the Victoria Handweavers' Guild set up a three-day exhibition and sale of work. The display was opened Thursday afternoon and will be on until Saturday night.

There are samples of every type of spinning and weaving work from men's suiting to drapery, handbags to shirting and dress material. Colorful plaids vie with beautiful checks.

"The work has limitless possibilities," said Mrs. Rankin, general convener, who made herself a three-piece wool suit for $30, which was valued at $175. "Interest in weaving is growing immensely."

The organization, founded to promote handicrafts, was formed 15 years ago with 10 members. There are now 60, according to Mrs. Pickles, president.

"Besides being an exhilarating though very exacting hobby weaving helps people to express themselves," said Mrs. Rankin. "There are hundreds of different patterns, not one alike. Several people can work on the same pattern and yet each gives it an individual touch that makes it different."

"There is such a wide field," she continued. "A teacher shows the pupil the fundamentals but each pupil builds a different technique. Weaving is the greatest outlet for individuality and personality."

Mrs. Pickles looks on the art as a character builder as well, since perfection of each item in the weaving job is essential with its resultant need for patience.

"I took up weaving when my daughter was sick and my husband made a small loom for her to work on," said Mrs. Pickles. "I began with our Women's Institute group and now have six looms," said Mrs. Rankin. "I make all my own materials."

Her toughest assignment to date is the spinning and weaving of a moose hair shirt. Evening bags, plaid shirts, table cloths, curtains, shopping bags and materials of every color and design are on display. F. Farmer of Salt-Spring Island and Frank Morris are among the male members of the guild exhibiting at the display. Mrs. Elsie Cook, Mrs. Marjorie Hill, Mrs. Hazel Hodson, Mrs. Ethel Hammond and Mrs. G. B. Buffam, all of whom won honors at the Toronto Exhibition for their weaving, have articles on display.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Christmas Sale Realizes $325

A brightly-lighted Christmas tree and row on row of stalls decked in red and green wrappings and holly sprigs set the Yuletide theme for the bazaar and afternoon tea held Thursday afternoon by Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., in R. of P. Hall, Cormorant Street.

Approximately $325 was realized to further the chapter's work.

Mrs. T. Lumsden, vice-regent, introduced Mrs. W. C. Nichol, second vice-president, Provincial Chapter, who officially declared the bazaar open for sales, and presented her with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

Beautiful hand-made articles, the work of patients at Royal Jubilee Hospital, attracted visitors to the display of occupational and art therapy in charge of Miss M. Izard and Mrs. J. Swanell.

An attractive handbag, glove and belt set worked in soft wine and grey suede, lapel pins, hand-woven scarves, plastic jewelry with fine silver inlay, fine watercolors, oils and attractive Christmas cards were included in the display.

Other stalls included fancy work and novelties, Mrs. W. N. Lenfesty; aprons, Mrs. L. A. Lucas; superfluties, Mrs. W. Blair; home cooking, Mrs. B. Ripley; plants and vegetables, Mrs. T. H. Brooker; Christmas tree, Mrs. A. G. Moody; contest, Mrs. F. B. McLeod.

A Yuletide centerpiece, a silvered fir bough set with bright Christmas balls and flanked with tall turquoise candles, graced the tea table, covered with a turquoise and white cloth.

Mrs. Lumsden presided at the urns, and other guests included Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. J. L. Ford, Municipal regent; Miss Mary Irving, supervisor, Royal Jubilee Hospital T.B. Pavilion, and other municipal officers.

Mrs. H. Catterall was in charge of tea arrangements, and Mrs. J. D. P. Chadwick, the tea-table decorations and musical program.

Wise Guidance Leads To Happy Children, Supervisor Says

"Never keep telling a child how bad he is. It is the child's actions which are wrong. A sensitive youngster will begin to believe that he is really bad if he hears mother tell him so again and again," explained Miss Marian D. James to an audience of mothers and grandmothers yesterday afternoon in the Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company.

"Bringing beauty into the life of a child" was the theme chosen by the supervisor of kindergarten, primary education, Greater Victoria schools, for her address sponsored by the Victoria Home Economics Association.

For development of happy, healthy children, wise guidance is most important, Miss James told her listeners. "Parents should realize that a child needs time to grow, and that rushing his learning only causes difficulties and problems, she said.

Almost every child has such difficulties as story telling, helping himself to things that do not belong to him but they are not labeled "problem children."

These difficulties can easily be overcome by explaining to the small person, the harm resulting from their actions, Miss James explained.

She said that it was important for parents to ready their children for school—prepare them to meet it as the next natural experience in growing up.

"Through understanding, and wise guidance, parents can send their youngsters to school eager to learn."

It is the duty of parents to know their child thoroughly, and thus be able to choose wisely their child's companions, surroundings, activities, toys, books and clothing, she explained.

"Even a small child who cannot yet read will enjoy a colorful picture book with nursery rhymes his mother can teach him. And toys are very important. A child should have toys he can do something with. Blocks to make things from and to learn from; dolls to be washed and dressed; soft animals that can be cuddled and loved."

Miss James concluded her talk with a display of children's toys and books.

Mothers Stay Only Two Days In Crowded Aussie Hospital

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia is so short of maternity hospitals that its best known one, Crown Street Women's Hospital in Sydney, is starting a plan in which mothers and their babies will return home two days after the child is born.

Crown Street now handles nearly 6,000 confinements a year, but even then has to refuse an other 2,000 cases admission. The new short-term stay is expected to allow the hospital to receive another 1,000 cases a year.

Doctors emphasize that the new policy has nothing to do with recent arguments about early post-operation ambulation—in other words, getting out of bed sooner after an operation.

Any mother sent home after two days will go in an ambulance and will be visited every day for at least a week after that by a doctor and a nurse. In addition, the hospital must get a guarantee that the mother will have a constant companion for 10 to 12 days after her return home and that there will be no overcrowding in the home.

And any mother who wants to stay longer in hospital will be allowed to. Already, though, several future patients have told the hospital that they approve of the idea.

Nearly all Australian babies are born in maternity hospitals, and Australian doctors have long campaigned not only for more hospitals but for more convalescent homes so that mothers need not return to their household tasks for several weeks after their confinement. But with housing and hospital programs badly lagging, such convalescent homes are a dream of the future.

Prof. Bruce T. Mayes, obstetrics chief at Sydney University, says the proposal must be considered an expedient and not in line with modern principles for the management of motherhood.

In Step With Style Your Baby And Mine

By MARGUERITE DALZIEL
Women's Department, Victoria Times

Housecoats or lounging pyjamas rate high for favored "at home" costumes of many young women.

On display in many of the local shops are a variety of these costumes that would thrill an actress.

If you prefer soft, warm housecoats, you'll find them in a number of color tones, both bold and pastel—wine, forest green, navy, softest pink, baby blue. They are featured in classic tailored lines, or comfortable wrap-arounds.

Lounging pyjamas this season are shown in exotic shades and fabrics.

One suit fashioned of soft black velvet, featured a waist-length full-backed jacket lined with scarlet satin; tailored trousers are also of black velvet.

Silk shantung is another popular fabric for lounging pyjamas. Trousers are generally in black, and jackets in lovely contrasting hues.

Perfume Surprises—If you have a Christmas shopping problem, visit your nearest perfume counter.

With so many new surprise packages this year it's hard to know where to start.

A fluffy white snowman and snowflake encase your favorite cologne. A snowball opens out to display a sweet-smelling soap.

An exclusive new feature captures the same fragrance in soap, cologne and perfume.

Something entirely new in Canadian fabrics is a satin-jacquard bengaline shown above in a colorful rose design. The first of its kind to appear on the market, this full-skirted housecoat will soon be available in local stores.

Wear It—Still on the topic of perfume, manufacturers have given us attractive bracelets fashioned with tiny compacts containing solid or liquid perfume. The trend continues with a dainty lapel locket featuring a tiny vial of your favored fragrance.

Combinations—Designers have gone all out with attractive cases featuring lipstick at one end and at the other perfume. For those women who prefer to use two lipsticks, a dark tone to outline the mouth, and a lighter one for the inner edge, cases have been designed to hold two lipstick tubes.

Men Particular—The Christmas season draws many male customers to the perfume counters. "And men are really hard to sell to," a salesgirl told me. "Usually they ask for an expensive French perfume, and they like to know just what they are buying," she continued and added with a laugh, "about the only time they are not too particular about what they want is at 4.45 on Christmas Eve."

Today's Recipe

Coconut macaroon crumbs and canned fruit cocktail accented with a bit of orange juice make this fruited cream mold a most delicious dessert.

Eight coconut macaroons, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, ½ cup orange juice, 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) plain gelatin, 1½ cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups canned fruit cocktail.

Crumble or dice macaroons and mix with orange rind and juice. Let stand, stirring occasionally while preparing custard mixture. Soften gelatin in ½ cup milk. Combine remaining milk with lightly beaten egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar and salt. Place over hot water and cook and stir until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat. Dissolve gelatin in hot custard.

Cool to room temperature. Stir in macaroon-orange mixture. Chill until partially set. Beat egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in remaining sugar. Fold meringue into gelatin mixture. Fold in well-drained fruit cocktail. Turn into one-quart mold, or into individual molds and chill until firm.

ELGIN, Morayshire, Scotland (CP)—When Mrs. Jane Murdoch celebrated her 101st birthday she received 900 telegrams and greeting cards.

Plan Rummage Sale—Looking ahead were members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. who met in the mural room of Y.M.C.A. Thursday and made plans for a rummage sale for Feb. 4. Curtains and pillow slips were purchased by the house committee. The new slate of officers was presented by the nominating committee.

SELFISHNESS IS NATURAL IN CHILDREN

Soon now, when every child is going to have more toys than he can play with, any display of selfishness seems uglier than usual.

Parents will note that very young children have little sense of possessiveness. They give up their toys without a struggle. Not so the child of two or thereabouts. He looks upon every approaching child with suspicion. Does he want his toys? He clutches them to his breast, snatching up everything he has and hovering over them like a broody hen. Even if he cannot possibly play with all of his toys, he cannot be persuaded to part with one of them.

This is natural behavior, except to the child who has learned that he can buy companionship by parting with his treasures. Unselfishness comes easier to him than to the child who is popular no matter how he acts. Selfishness is natural because the child has to develop a sense of property, he has to feel the importance of what is his in order to learn to respect what belongs to another. He cannot gain confidence that his own property will be respected and left alone, unless his parents allow him the privilege of managing his own toys as he wishes.

Once he feels confident that no one will forcibly take from him what he considers to be his, he will be ready to share his possessions with others. He will have to be assured that he will not lose what he gives up as the toy is only borrowed and will be returned when the child has finished with it. At first the time limit for such borrowing may have to be five or 10 minutes only, with the time increased as his confidence is strengthened.

Children should be made aware that when they share with other children, inevitably they get something in return. They must see the profit in their unselfishness, for children are realistic and not idealistic. They want to see the end results of a way of acting and parents have to interpret these for them.

It is a late development for a child to be happy to give up what he owns. It may be penalizing to the parent to have a generous child and they may have to point out that when a toy is pressed upon another child, they alone suffer; since they must replace the toy, or deny the child its pleasure.

Ordinarily, most parents are satisfied if a child learns to share and they can wait until he has something of his very own to give, before illustrating the third stage of complete unselfishness.

Our leaflet No. 69 "Selfishness and Jealousy," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Fashion Is Supreme

IPSWICH, Eng. (CP)—Suffolk children are filling their spare time gathering acorns for the British forestry commission.

The boys get threepence (four cents) a pound for the acorns, from which the commission is growing thousands of seedling oaks for Britain's future forests.

The plan is for hardwood belts surrounding evergreen forests as protection against forest fires.

England Welcomed Canadian Troops Ten Years Ago

Ten years ago, on Dec. 17, 1939, Britain joyously received an early and heartening Christmas present in the shape of some 7,500 Canadian troops—the vanguard of more than 355,000 who were to welcome before World War II was over and won.

The first contingent of the 1st Canadian Division arrived that morning in the Clyde River, unannounced and heavily escorted, in one of the most impressive convoys to make the Atlantic crossing during the war.

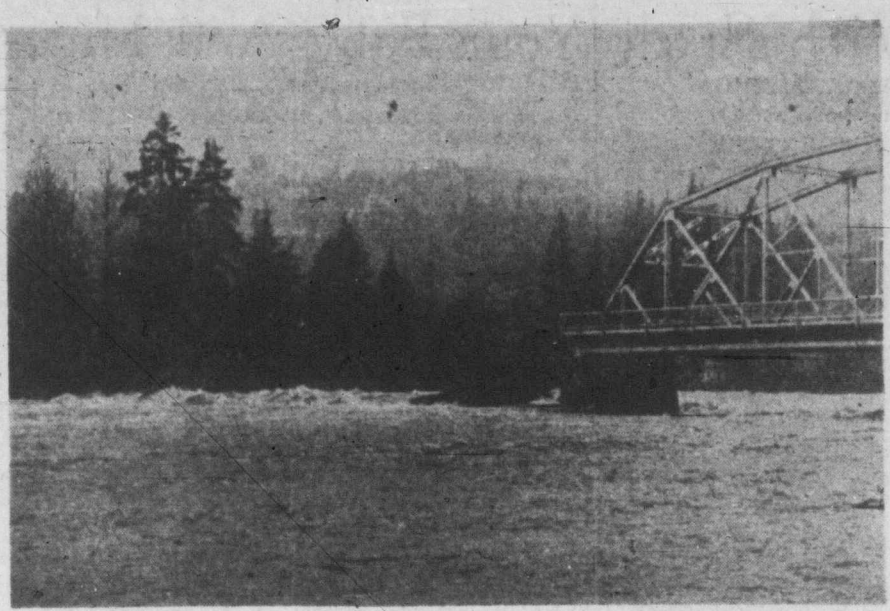

The Canadians lost no time introducing themselves. From the crowded transports they loudly and unmistakably spelt out in unison "CANADA" and concluded on a mighty crescendo "CANADA!" The Canadians had arrived in Britain.

Coach Lines, Drivers Sign New Contract

Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. and the Vancouver Island Drivers' Division 234 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (C.C.L.) have signed a new two-year contract providing for a 16-cent-an-hour wage boost and reduction of work hours from 48 to 40.

The agreement, dated Dec. 1, brings the pay and hours of work of the 110 Coach Lines drivers on Vancouver Island to the same level as for B.C. Electric bus drivers. The 40-hour work week, which will require additions to the driving staff, will be effected by Jan. 29.

24,000 Civilians Work For Services

There are approximately 114,000 Canadians engaged full-time or part-time on defence, according to recent figures compiled at National Defence Headquarters.

Round figures issued by the department show that of this total 24,000 are civilian employees, 45,000 are active force personnel and 45,000 are in the reserves.

Of the 24,000 civilian employees, 4,156 are employed in the dockyards at Halifax and Esquimaux; 11,227 in Navy, Army or R.C.A.F. shops or on construction work being done by the Defence Department, and some 8,976 are permanent or temporary civil servants, working with the armed forces.

Total strength of the active forces at the outbreak of war was 8,209. Navy, Army and R.C.A.F. personnel and 1,569 civilians. The United States is understood to have 900,000 civilians and 1,600,000 full-time soldiers, sailors and airmen.

Saw New Zealand Farmer As Labor's Stepping-stone

The New Zealand farmer was being used by the Labor government as a stepping-stone to better working conditions for the laborer, in the opinion of W. R. Rutherford, Windsor Motor Court, who recently returned from a holiday "down under."

Mr. Rutherford was commenting today on the defeat of the Socialist government in New Zealand last Wednesday after being in power 14 years.

A former resident of New Zealand, Mr. Rutherford said that he could see "the writing on the wall" for the Labor government when he visited the country this fall.

He produced a newspaper cartoon showing Prime Minister Fraser going through the well-known Sir Walter Raleigh mud-puddle scene. The labor chief said the mud-puddle was labeled "stabilization funds," in a mud-puddle, labeled "increased labor costs," for Mr. Farmer to step on. The farmer was exclaiming: "My coat!"

"It was signs like this which made me think that the people were becoming fed up," Mr. Rutherford commented.

He had words of praise for the New Zealander for giving Socialism what he termed "a fair go." The New Zealander was an individualist, willing to give anything a fair trial. And now that Socialism had run its course, he had called for the return of the free enterprise form of government.

Document Read At Hiss Trial Tells Of Prewar Manoeuvres

NEW YORK (AP)—French, British and Russian manoeuvres to win a prewar accord with Germany are described in a secret 1938 State Department document read at the Alger Hiss perjury trial.

The document was suppressed on the basis of national security at Hiss' first trial last summer.

A high French official quoted in the document describes Britain as "flirting constantly with Germany and Italy."

The document pictures France as seeking United States help in promoting amity with Hitler. Another passage relates that Russia threatened an immediate accord with Hitler if France

Defence Minister Says Civilian Army Vital To Canada

The great majority of the officers and N.C.O.s in the Canadian Army Reserve Force satisfy the requirements for service in the Active Force, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton said in a recent white paper on Canada's defence program.

He said the importance of the reserve army was demonstrated in the Second World War by the fact that at the war's end reserve force officers had furnished the Canadian Army with 60 per cent of its divisional commanders, 85 per cent of its rigadiers and 92 per cent of its unit commanders.

He referred to the reserve force as a "citizen army" and a vital part of Canada's defence. Training and equipment. Interested and trained personnel having adequate buildings and equipment are essential for peacetime training and wartime growth.

Since the war, he said, good progress has been made organizing the army reserve force on a peacetime basis. In this respect, active force officers and N.C.O.s have been attached to every reserve unit as administrative and training officers; reserve soldiers have been granted the same rates of pay as active force personnel; new scales for clothing have been provided for; armory accommodation has been increased by 70 per cent since 1939; and training facilities at summer camps have been improved and extended.

"We shall do everything possible to strengthen the Reserve units in this work of national importance," the Minister said.

Musical Festival Officers Named

The new Greater Victoria Musical Festival advanced a stage further in development of a meeting in the schoolroom of First United Church, Dr. Roger Manning was in the chair.

Principal business was the election of a slate of officers prepared by the nominations committee, headed by Miss Una Calvert. Pending a further meeting, president and vice-president are to be announced, but the following officers were chosen: Mrs. M. Campbell, secretary; W. Harrison, treasurer; Mrs. Roberto Wood, chairman of syllabus committee; E. B. Redden, halls and tickets; Miss H. R. Anderson, publicity, and Harry Bigsby, program.

Mrs. Wood announced that the work of the syllabus committee, preparing lists of music for various classes, would begin immediately.

Saanich Council Changes Plan; To Have 7 Meetings

There will be seven election meetings in Saanich this year in halls covering the areas which formerly were broken up into seven wards.

Saanich Council Thursday night rescinded its former motion restricting meetings to two, to be held in the Royal Oak Hall.

Reeve E. C. Warren, confined to his home due to illness, registered his complaint over a two-meeting policy by the council in a letter read by John B. Tribe, municipal clerk. The reeve had not been present at the meetings to decide the number of meetings and where they were to be held.

Mr. Tribe reported that meetings would be held next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, which means that two meetings will be held on three of the nights and that arrangements would have to be made to have the heavy slate of candidates seeking election appear at both.

Meetings will be announced as soon as the municipal clerk has arranged the schedule.

Three New Bus Shelters Approved in Saanich

Councillor Kenneth R. Genn, chairman of the Saanich Council light and transportation committee, reported today that the council has approved the establishment of bus shelters to be located on Caen Road, at the Health Centre and at Royal Oak.

Saanich Committee For Uniform Code

Councillor E. P. Cummins, chairman of the council building committee, reported at the council special meeting Thursday night that his committee had endorsed the plan of a uniform building code for Greater Victoria. He indicated that under the unified plan there would be a final investigation of new structures before occupancy to eliminate a lot of troubles that were cropping up.

Saanich Fines $325

In Saanich police court Thursday afternoon 18 motorists caught for exceeding the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit were fined $15 each to account for $270 of the $325 collected for traffic violations.

To Plan Saxe Point Sewer Tunnel Outlet Carefully

An Esquimalt Council delegation was assured by Saanich municipal engineer H. D. Dawson Thursday night that every possible precaution would be taken to prevent pollution to Esquimalt beaches through a sewage tunnel outlet in deep water off Saxe Point.

The 11,000-foot tunnel, from the Gorge to the point, is included in the $2,035,000 sewerage money by-law Saanich ratepayers will vote on Dec. 10.

Councillor A. C. Wurtele headed the Esquimalt group of three meeting Saanich Council in special session. Others were Councillors James Ellis and Fred Higgins. Councillor George Austin, senior Saanich councillor, was acting reeve in the absence of Reeve E. C. Warren who is confined to his home due to illness.

The delegation assured Saanich Council that Esquimalt desired to co-operate in any way for Saanich to get a sewerage system in operation and hoped the by-law would pass. However, they noted the worry of Esquimalt residents that there was the possibility of a health danger should the effluent kick-back onto the Saxe Point public beaches.

"We want assurances that should such a danger crop up that it will be remedied by Saanich," said Mr. Wurtele.

Mr. Dawson told the meeting the outlet would be out in the sea at a point where Fraser Street meets the shore.

In a lengthy explanation, Mr. Dawson said that before the shore was reached the tunnel would dip down under the floor of the sea "to a point where we will be satisfied there will be no throw-back of the effluent to the beaches."

FURTHER TESTS

He pointed out, however, that further tests would have to be made in addition to information from existing Admiralty charts and hydrographic surveys to determine tides and currents in order to assure that the sewage would be taken out to sea. Therefore, at present, it was not possible to say how far out the tunnel would have to go.

The engineer thought there was very little danger of the "kick-back" feared in Esquimalt. Later in the evening Mr. Dawson pointed out that although he had forgotten the matter for the moment while the Esquimalt group was present, the Provincial Health Department earlier had given its approval of the waters off the point to be used as an outlet on the Admiralty reports and tests made by a former Saanich engineer.

Passmore Says He Will Hit Out At New Saanich Group

Councillor Leslie H. Passmore served notice to Saanich Council meeting that he was going to "hit" the newly-organized Saanich Municipal Ratepayers' Association "as hard as I can" in the election meetings next week.

While the pre-organization meeting of the association had "non-partisan" in its name—which was later changed—Mr. Passmore still referred to the group as the non-partisans.

The councillor for the area formerly known as Ward Seven took on the "I predict" role last night by claiming that he felt sure—from rumors—that the four present council members the association has taken under its wing already were Reeve E. C. Warren and Councillors G. Austin, J. G. Ryan and E. P. Cummins.

The councillors named said they were not aware of this, although George Austin said he had been approached and had told association representatives that he would run under their banner.

Mr. Cummins, however, stated he endorses the association six-point program "that municipal policy can only be properly worked out at the council table and that quality of the men elected to council determines the quality of the policy."

Mr. Passmore asked all three present if they had been approached by the association to see if they agreed with the association platform. All replied in the negative.

Can Vote For 7 Seeking Saanich Councillor Seats

Saanich electors on Dec. 10 can vote for seven or less of the candidates seeking the seven councillor seats on the municipal council.

Asked about this by Sydney Pickles, candidate, Mr. Tribe said that the Municipal Act provided that electors can vote for any number they want up to seven without spoiling their ballots.

"That's all I wanted to know," said Mr. Pickles, who said he had been asked that by a half a hundred people.

Mr. Pickles pointed out this left the way open to "plumping the vote"—enabling voters to vote for only those they wanted and taking votes away from others on the election slate.

On a motion by Councillor K. R. Genn, the council decided to refer the matter of opposing the single transferable vote to next year's council for consideration.

Seek To Delay Big Sewerage Plan In Saanich 6 Months

Efforts of some Saanich Council members Thursday night to have the $2,035,000 sewerage by-law to be voted on Dec. 10 in the municipality delayed for six months did not progress to the point of going to a council vote. The by-law will still be put to a vote as scheduled.

Councillor Leslie H. Passmore declared: "I feel quite confident the by-law will not pass," and he added, turning to look at reporters, "I don't mind at all being quoted on that in the press."

Mr. Passmore believed that the project should be shelved for six months in order to give the council members time to study the whole thing so that they can give an intelligible report to the voters on it. He said he could not do this now and classed the council action as "going about this in a half-baked manner."

Sidney Pickles, candidate for a council seat, was present and made himself clear that he strongly opposed the sewerage by-law being put to the people at the present time. He said the by-law had been "hastily rushed through without a thorough investigation of all angles, including the Esquimalt fear and all the phases of expense that might be entailed."

Mr. Dawson had earlier stated it would take a year to work out all the minute details of the scheme.

Councillor E. P. Cummins wanted the possibility of federal aid investigated.

Both Councillors Kenneth R. Genn and John G. Ryan believed that from facts and figures shown the engineer felt as sure he could install the system at the by-law price figure. They were satisfied the plan should go ahead now.

Councillors George Austin and William Kersey also reiterated earlier opinions that the whole project should be more closely investigated before being put to a vote.

"But I will certainly vote for anything that calls for a sewerage system," declared Mr. Austin and he was quickly backed by Mr. Passmore.

Sween Sues S.P.C.A. And Official For Cat Rescue Injury

Damages of $151.40 are being sought by a Victoria chimney sweep from the S.P.C.A. and a former official of that society for injuries received when bitten by a cat he was rescuing from a tree 13 months ago.

The suit was filed by William A. S. Hughes, 195 Regina Street, who claimed Mrs. Florence Barr, former S.P.C.A. secretary here, had personally undertaken to see his medical expenses were covered and had instructed him to get proper medical attention.

SERIOUS INJURIES

The sweep also claims the society was negligent in not warning him of the wild state of the cat, which had been marooned aloft for two days, and not providing him with suitable protective equipment and clothing. This, he says, resulted in him receiving serious injuries.

Hughes declared he is now unable to use the thumb and is handicapped in his work. He also states he still suffers extreme pain from the injury.

A further charge in the complaint says the society failed to register Hughes under the Workmen's Compensation Act and thus he was wrongfully deprived of compensation.

The case is expected to come up next week.

Urges Farmers Grow More Bacon Hogs

WINNIPEG (CP)—While production of grade A bacon hogs has shown a steady increase in eastern Canada since 1940, a definite decline has been recorded in the west, A. W. Peterson of Ottawa, assistant director, production services, Department of Agriculture, said here.

In an address Thursday at the second annual farm and home week conference at the University of Manitoba, Mr. Peterson upheld the national bacon hog production program established in 1922.

He urged hog producers to give the matter closest possible scrutiny before abandoning the bacon hog in favor of any other.

"The United States breeders are not only streamlining lard and non-bacon brands of hogs but are buying Canadian hogs for cross-breeding purposes," he said.

Increased per capita consumption of pork and pork products plus the increase in population has made Canada her own best bacon hog consumer, he said. Consumption in Canada now exceeds that of prewar years by 180,000,000 pounds.

List Of Britons Needing Treatment For T.B. Growing

By DON GILBERT

LONDON (CP)—Britons needing urgent treatment for tuberculosis have to wait as long as a year for a hospital bed. With 1,000 fresh cases showing up every week, the national waiting list is growing steadily stronger.

"Patients are lying in their homes begging for the treatment which can only be given in hospital and which cannot be obtained until it is too late," the Royal College of Physicians was told by one authority on the disease, Dr. Geoffrey Marshall.

For the first time in half a century, the fight against tuberculosis mortality has lost ground. While the increase in the number of deaths has been slight, the rise in new cases reported is sharp. It is estimated 250,000 Britons are suffering from tuberculosis in one form or another.

Delay in getting serious cases under treatment is partly due to the general shortage of nurses and partly an aftermath of the war years when the network of sanatoria and hospitals carefully built up to fight the disease was switched to care of war casualties. The resulting disorganization has not yet been straightened out.

11,500 SERIOUS CASES

At present, 11,500 serious cases are without hospital beds. Many of these, says the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, are spreading infection among others and themselves are in danger of passing from the curable to the incurable stage.

The upsurge of the disease has been sharpest in Scotland, where 3,417 died in 1948 against 2,717 in 1939. Some phases of Scotland's tuberculosis statistics are the worst in half a century and there are more T.B. deaths in crowded Glasgow than in Hamburg, one of Germany's worst-bombed cities.

A writer in the Lancet, authoritative medical journal, calls for a "sanitary revolution" to fight the disease. But health officers point out that one of the most important factors in any such campaign, elimination of overcrowded living conditions, will remain a long way off as long as the country's economic difficulties continue.

Seek Entries For Lighting Contest

"A bigger and brighter Christmas" is the current slogan of a Junior Chamber of Commerce committee which is arranging this year's Christmas home lighting contest.

Last year, the contest attracted 60 entries. This year, the committee hopes, the number of competitors will reach the 100 mark. Householders wishing information on the contest or wanting suggestions about decorating should write the chamber at Post Office box 544. There is no charge for entering.

Bill Morrison, is chairman of the committee in charge of the competition.

The DOCTOR Says:

SURGERY SEEMS TO BE BETTER TREATMENT FOR RUPTURE CASES

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Men are more susceptible to hernias, or ruptures, than women are, though they can occur in either sex. This is because of differences in anatomy and the greater exposure of men to heavy strain in the course of their occupations and amusements.

Once a rupture has occurred there are three lines of treatment to consider. The most conservative is to wear a truss or support which will keep the sac and abdominal contents more or less in place. This may be satisfactory for a person who does not engage in much muscular exertion, though there is always some danger that a sudden strain will cause the rupture to become strangulated. Nevertheless, there are many people who can wear a truss for many years with fairly good success.

INJECTION TREATMENT

Some years ago the injection treatment was suggested for hernia. The purpose of injection is to irritate the inside of the hernial sac so that a firm scar will form at the point where the hernia is bulging and force back the contents of the sac where it belongs. This method requires several treatments and carries some risk. Also the scar tissue formed is not always strong enough to bring permanent relief. Although the injection treatment still has some supporters, it probably is not used as much as it used to be and is not as desirable as surgery in most cases.

By surgery the contents of the sac can be put back in place and a firm covering built up at the weak point so that the organs are kept where they belong. Hernias sometimes come back after such operations, often because of the carelessness of the patient, but modern methods of operating have improved so much that fewer and fewer recurrences occur. This is the best method of treatment for most patients with a rupture.

Question—Could you explain gynecology to me in non-medical terms?

Answer—This word refers to that branch of medicine which deals exclusively with diseases of women, particularly of the reproductive organs.

Junior Pucksters Open League Play

Mayor Percy George drops the puck between the sticks of Bob McConachy, left, of the All-Stars, and R. Gillespie, Navy, to officially open the Island Junior Hockey League at the Memorial Arena last night. Standing in the background are Doug Fletcher, league president, and referee Leo Ornest. All-Stars scored a victory.

Surging Chicago Hawks Take Over Third Place In N.H.L.

Netminder Harry Lumley has Detroit Red Wings on the National Hockey League victory trail again.

The big goalie racked up his fourth—and second successive—shutout of the campaign last night as the Wings blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 2 to 0 in Toronto. In the only other game, Chicago Black Hawks took over undisputed third place by defeating the last-place Boston Bruins 5 to 4 at Chicago.

The victory at Toronto gave Coach Tommy Ivan's Wings 31 points—nine ahead of the second-place Montreal Canadiens, while the loss put the Leafs in fourth place, two behind Chicago.

Lumley, a 24-year-old native of Owen Sound, Ont., turned in a performance that was a far cry from that last week-end when he allowed 13 goals as the Wings lost two games.

On the rough end of the 2 to 0 count was little rookie Gil Mayer, playing his first N.H.L. game while replacing the too-fat Turk Broda. Mayer was visibly nervous before the game but settled down.

If Leafs' boss Conny Smythe was aiming for publicity when he issued his now famous blast against overweights, it worked. There were 14,015 fans jamming the Maple Leaf Gardens.

BRODA TO RETURN

Meanwhile, Broda who rocketed to headline news when he was benched for carrying seven pounds too much, watched from the sidelines. The goalie pared down to 190 pounds in two days on gymnasium tactics and stiff diets and, having made the weight, is due to get back in the cage Saturday night.

Jim McEwen was the chief offensive cog. He scored the first goal while Toronto's Ted Kennedy was serving a tripping penalty and then set up the other for winger Jim Peters in the first period. Kennedy suffered a knee injury in the third period and is expected to be out three weeks.

ONLY TWO CENTRES

The injury left the Leafs with only two centres. Cal Gardner was sidelined two weeks ago with a broken jaw, leaving Max Bentley and rookie Rudy Migay as the only active playmakers on the roster.

George Armstrong, high-scoring youngster with Toronto Marlboro Juniors, will work out with the Leafs today and may fill in temporarily.

At Chicago Gaye Stewart got the pay-off goal at 14.34 of the final session.

Doug Bentley, Bert Olmstead, Roy Conacher and Rep Guidolin got the other Chicago goals. Phil Maloney, Zello Toppazzini, Woody Dumart and Bill Quackenbush were the marksmen for the Bruins.

The victory ran Chicago's unbeaten string to four games, with three victories following a tie with Detroit last week.

All-Stars Score Win In Junior Ice Opener

The Island Junior Hockey League got away to a rousing start at the Memorial Arena last night with the Victoria All-Stars nudging the Navy sextette, 10 to 7.

Most of the game's action came in the second period when six goals came in the space of eight minutes, the All-Stars breaking a 2 to 2 first-period score to move ahead 7 to 5 at the end of the frame.

Navy got away to a one-goal lead in the first four minutes of the game when Davidge found the net on a pass from Devigne. Courtland of the All-Stars got the equalizer a minute and a half later. Audette, unassisted, gave Navy their second lead at the 10:48 mark with McConchy of the Victoria squad squaring matters at 15.52.

McCONCHY NETS FOUR

Derry of the All-Stars went in alone on goalie Aird of the sailors 23 seconds after the start of the second period and put the All-Stars in front for the first time. Gaunt, from Gillespie, tied the count for Navy at 1:07. A minute later McConchy got his second of four goals to again put All-Stars on top.

Victoria's Green made it 5 to 3 at 4:05 and after Gagnon's marker for Navy at 6:24, Courtland and McConchy scored for the All-Stars to boost the winners into a 7 to 4 edge. Buick closed out the wild period of scoring with Navy's fifth goal.

Fifty-three seconds after the final stanza got away, Gaunt of the Navy cut the Victoria lead to one goal, but Preston and McConchy of the All-Stars clinched matters with two fast goals in

also might ask what the arena commission is doing about getting an explanation of the leaking roof? Water drip is so bad in one spot that it forms a rivulet through one of the exits to form a large pool in the lower passageway under the main promenade. Manager Dutkowski is at a loss to explain the leakage but is of the opinion the water may be coming through the expansion joints and seeping through the sheets bolted to the arena ceiling. Anyway a number of the box seat customers at the hockey games are getting pretty tired of the steady drip on to their clothes or down their necks. It is about time the members of the arena commission took a firm stand and asked consulting engineer Charles Hamilton for some reasonable explanation to the many little problems facing them in their efforts to smooth out the operations of the plant. After all, Mr. Hamilton has all ways given one the opinion he is the man with all the answers. And what action has been taken, if any, towards improving the lighting for hockey games? Officials of the Cougars protested the poor lighting from the time their players stepped on the ice to start pre-season practices back in September.

Navy Fighters Seek Port Championships

The Navy's annual Port Boxing Championships will be held at the Armouries Saturday night with entries from the ships and establishments competing in all weights for the titles.

Chief referee for the evening will be Eddie Haddad, Dominion amateur lightweight champion and one of the boxers to compete at the forthcoming British Empire Games in New Zealand.

Getting underway at 8, the Navy sluggers will present a 10 bout card which promises to provide a full evening of fistbouts. Preliminaries will be held at H.M.C.S. Naden Thursday afternoon.

Cougars To Strip Two New Forwards Tonight

Victoria Cougars today announced the acquisition of yet another player in their club-strengthening program, bringing to three the number of new players signed this week.

He is George Hayes, formerly of the Seattle Ironmen, and he comes to the local P.C.H.L. club on a six-game conditional basis.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

UNTIL such time as the big electric time clock at the Memorial Arena is put into first-class working order, Cougars would be smart to keep the timer dark and return to the old system of stop watches to time their hockey games. In recent weeks coaches and players of visiting clubs have been protesting the weird actions of the clock and first thing the Cougars know they are going to have a protest on their hands and in a tight game such a squawk might well be upheld. Manner in which the big second hand often slides anywhere from three to eight seconds after the power has been turned off is bad business. It is nothing to do with the official timekeeper. He just can't control the faulty mechanism.

IT IS HARD to understand why the national firm responsible for installing the clock has not taken quick action to have the timer put into good working order. Ever since the second or third game of the season something has been wrong with the clock. Granted the timer is a neat bit of equipment, but its efficiency has left much to be desired. Up to the present the advertising derived from the timer has been all bad. It is just another bit of new equipment at the arena to be found faulty. From what I can learn, clocks at other arenas work for years without going wrong. Must be a jinx hanging over our $10,000 plant.

Also might ask what the arena commission is doing about getting an explanation of the leaking roof? Water drip is so bad in one spot that it forms a rivulet through one of the exits to form a large pool in the lower passageway under the main promenade. Charles (Bus) Gagnon and Murray Richardson were signed by the club earlier in the week, Richardson coming from Fresno Falcons and Gagnon from Cincinnati of the A.H.L.

Hayes and Richardson will be in uniform tonight when the Cougars meet New Westminster Royals at the Memorial Arena at 8.30. Gagnon will not report until next week as he has received permission to remain in the east for a few days to arrange transportation for his family.

The Cougars now have 16 players, one over the league player limit.

ROYALS HOLD EDGE

In the Royals last appearance here a week ago tonight the Cougars eked out a 3 to 2 decision. This verdict was reversed the following night at the Royal City, giving the Royals a four to one edge over the locals for the season.

The Royals were short-handed last week with only nine players in uniform but tonight the club will be at near full strength with the high-scoring line of Kenny Ulliot, Amy Dufalt and Ollie Dorohoy back as a unit.

For the Cougars, coach Eddie Wares reports the team in top shape. The first two forward lines of Eddie Dorohoy, Eddie Mazur, Roy McKay and Bernie Strongman-Georges Bougie-Larry Thibault will remain intact with Joe Evans and Russ Kopak working with newcomers Richardson and Hayes. Eddie Marneau returns to the defence.

Four Performers Carry Show For Wrestling Fans

With only four of the scheduled performers on hand, wrestling fans saw something new at last night's card at the York Theatre. When Frank Stojack and Cliff Parker failed to turn up, owing to an accident, Leo Wallick, Maurice LaChapelle, George Hessel and Lee Grable elected to carry the show and did a good job.

First of all Grable and Wallick stepped through the ropes and treated the customers to a clever 45-minute match that ended with each boy having a fall. They were followed by LaChapelle and Hessel and although the pair didn't uncock as many tricks as in their match the previous week it was good entertainment.

As usual, Hessel made good use of the ropes to pin his opponent, much to the disapproval of the fans.

All four grapplers moved back into the ring for a wind-up tag team affair. It was short and sweet, but the fans seemed satisfied with the evening's show.

Seven-Year Russel Cup Holders

Taking the best-of-three series in straight games against Victoria High, the Oak Bay High School senior rugby team captured the Howard Russel Cup, emblematic of high school rugby supremacy, for the seventh consecutive year this week. Bays finished the regular league season in a first-place deadlock with V.H.S. and captured a paid of 5 to 3 decisions in the finals. Left to right, back row: Don Oliver, coach; Dave Francis, Dacre Powell, Bob Smith, Roy Derry, Johnny Johnson, Geoff Gwynn, Dick McIntosh; middle row, Will Thompson, student manager; Garry Williams, Doug Bell, Roy Barnes, Walt Young, Ritchie Pollard, Ken Higgs, Dick Willis, J. G. Wallace, manager; front row: D. H. Hartness, principal; Jack Shipley, Jim Burns, Tom Heppell, Bill Vogel, Tom Ward, Ernie Alexander, Gary Webster, Alan Richardson.

United Draws Only Four Home Fixtures In Second Half Draw

Victoria United will have four home games and six away in the second half of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, if the schedule drawn up by the executive is approved by the clubs.

The executive has abandoned the effort to maintain a three match per week progress, and the games are spread into 14 groups (not counting two proposed Sunday matches). The result is that on 10 Saturdays at least two of the six clubs will be idle.

This unsatisfactory state of affairs is caused by the fact that the three Vancouver clubs play their home matches on the same ground—Callister Park. In order that each will have its share of five home matches, the schedule has to be extended from 10 to 15 weeks.

So far as Victoria is concerned the preponderance of away fixtures in the second half merely equalizes the excess of home games over away matches in the first-half schedule, but while the local club may accept that as being equitable enough, it seems hardly likely that it will enjoy the prospect of playing matches against St. Andrews and North Shore at Callister Park on successive days (Saturday and Sunday).

The clubs due to visit Victoria are St. Andrews, Nanaimo, Royals and Vancouver City.

At last night's league meeting, president James Seggie accused the Victoria United club of laxity in failing to call off last Saturday's match between the United and New Westminster Royals, until after the Westminster team had left Vancouver by boat on Saturday morning, thus incurring the league in the expenses of the traveling club.

Charles Faulkner, the United secretary, said he had no authority to call off the match until he received word either from the parks board or from the referee. When the parks board phoned him regarding the condition of the ground, it was too late to contact the Westminster team, and the game was formally called off by the referee at 1.

The president ruled that, to avoid further happenings of the sort, Faulkner would in future be vested with full power to call a match early enough to warn the visiting club not to travel.

Brentwood Aces pulled six points ahead of the pack in the Men's Senior B Basketball League last night by trimming a fighting West Heat quintette 30 to 21 at the H.M.C.S. Naden gym.

Meanwhile, Senators moved into a second-place tie with Knott and Elford by edging the Navy 45 to 43, in the second game of the twin bill.

The underdog West Heat five gave Aces a terrific battle for the first half and only trailed by three points at the intermission. The losers climbed to within one point of the suburbanites early in the second half but four straight baskets ended their hopes of victory.

Senators took an early lead against the Navy being on top 18 to 8 at the quarter and 22 to 21 at the half. The sailors moved in front four times in the second canto but Senators withstood every thrust and finally pulled away to a 43 to 36 margin.

A last-minute rally by Navy fell two points short as Howie Slang put the game on ice with what proved to be the winning basket.

Once-Fiery Leo Durocher Stuns Audience With Smooth Answers

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The umpires aren't going to believe this, but Leo Durocher is a new man—a quiet one.

The change in the New York Giant manager was downright flabbergasting as he returned from the west coast to "try to push through several deals which are cooking with three clubs."

Leo, the erstwhile "Lip," no longer is a bombastic pop-off. Here was a man whose cockiness had fled almost without trace. There was peace in the placid blue eyes and almost without precedent—he weighed his answers carefully.

The old Yankees hung that nickname on Leo when he first came up 24 years ago and it was a fitting one, down through all his hectic baseball years. "The Lip" was all tongue, teeth and volume. He had the answer faster than you could think up the questions. But now, suddenly, that chip-on-shoulder, fiery attitude is gone. Don't get the idea from a pate which is practically naked and an ear fringe which is white on the edges that the 43-year-old Frehman is old. He's still trim, hard and eager.

MARRIAGE MAY BE ANSWER

Yet there's a difference. A happy marriage to screen actress Laraine Day probably is the answer. "They've just finished a new home at Santa Monica, a neat little thing with six bedrooms and four baths, and Leo is prouder of it than he would be if the Giants won the pennant. Which, he intimated rather carefully, they might."

"We've got to fill several spots, but if we make these deals the club prospectively will have a great chance," he said. "Where we need help is in the infield and a good, solid pitcher."

The "new" Durocher, who has been suspended more often than a window washer, showed a brand new discretion when asked whether he would like to have the Boston Braves' Eddie Stanky and whether he thought the Brooklyn Dodgers' Bruce Edwards was through.

"You will have me tampering," hedged Leo, who heretofore never dodged a direct, and usually inflammable answer. "But I've always said I liked him. And I certainly don't think Edwards is through."

Durocher, who is high on Bobby Thomson and Whitey Lockman, startled his press conference when he asserted that Lockman was "an astute youngster." Wait'll the umpires hear that one.

PRAISES NEWCOMER

Considering each consonant before it was uttered, Leo also asserted that Thomson is the only man in baseball at the moment who "can come close to filling the shoes of Joe DiMaggio," that Brooklyn's Don Newcombe is "great" and the best pitcher in the National League, and that third baseman Sid Gordon had asked for a chance to catch and "will be given that opportunity."

He also disclosed that Kenny Washington, former U.C.L.A. football star who played with Jackie Robinson, would be taken to Phoenix for spring training. And outfielder, Washington has power and speed.

Wanderers, Bays In Important Rugby Match Tomorrow

Tomorrow's English rugby match at Macdonald Park between Oak Bay Wanderers and J.B.A.A. will help to decide the league runner-up position in pre-Christmas play, Victoria College having secured up first-place honors. Game time is 2:30.

The Wanderers hold the distinction of being the only club to defeat the powerful College fifteen but last week suffered a surprise defeat at the hands of Canadian Services College, the cadets first triumph of the year. J.B.A.A., at present three points behind the Wanderers in the league race, need a victory to remain in contention for the runner-up spot.

J.B.A.A. line-up follows: Brown, Mullholland, Turner, Porter, Williams, Hepburn, Millard, Dempster, Mackie, Malcolm, Cook, Morrison, Kilshaw, Watson, Mark, Ranson, Smith, Young, Pullen and Holmes.

Will Bear Watching

Dick Ravenhorst, above, six foot six inch centre of the University of Western Washington College Vikings, can go a long way up in the air as "Y" bucket man Johnny Clark will probably find out in Saturday night's exhibition basketball game between the two clubs at the High School gym. Ravenhorst is one of the leading scorers of the Washington club and it should be quite a battle between these two evenly matched performers. Vikings took a 62 to 61 thriller from the "Y" last year and the locals are angling for revenge. Game time is 9.

LaStarza, Brion Hook Up Tonight In Important Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Unbeaten Rolind LaStarza of the Bronx and Cesar Brion of Argentina—outstanding young heavyweight prospects—are scheduled for a "shoot-the-works" fight at Madison Square Garden tonight to determine which should survive as contender for the crown.

A sensational victory by either principal in this international 10-round brawl might clinch a title shot with Ezzard Charles "within three months," according to matchmaker Al Weill of the International Club.

Because the bout is significant and because each 22-year-old "white hope" was a knockout puncher, they are expected to attract about 11,000 fans and $45,000.

Stock, black-haired LaStarza was favored at 8½ to 5 over his fall, brown-haired opponent, and the betting was heavy.

LaStarza, on leave from his studies at City College of New York, was favored because of his professional record and his style. He has achieved 36 straight victories since he turned professional in 1947. On two heavy-weight—not even Joe Louis—opened his pro career with such a long winning string. His style should be effective against a tall opponent, for he is a "weaving counter-puncher" who feints an opponent into leading and then steps in with short counter-hooks to body and head.

Vernon Canadians End Win Streak Of Kelowna Squad

KELOWNA (CP)—Second-place Vernon Canadians handed Kelowna Packers their first loss in their last nine Mainline Okanagan Senior Hockey League starts here last night with an 8 to 5 defeat.

Big gun in snapping the longest win string in league play this year was Johnny Loudon who scored four of Vernon's goals, three of them in the second period. Packers enjoyed a brief one-goal lead in the first period but from then on they had to watch the fast flying Vernonites mostly from a distance. Kelowna and Vernon still remain one and two in the league standings.

At Kamloops the hometown Elks defeated Kerrisdale Monarchs 4 to 2 in a tame affair. Elks outshot the Monarchs 49 to 18 but some poor marksmanship and great goal tending by Don Saunders kept the score down.

United-Nanaimo Set For Cup Football

Victoria United currently on a par with any other club in the Coast Soccer League off their record in recent games, go up against Nanaimo in the first round of the Anderson Cup series at Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon at 2:15.

Despite the heavy rain of recent days and barring a repetition of last week's Saturday morning downpour and resultant cancellation the game will be played, Charlie Faulkner, secretary of the United, said today.

If any cancellation is necessary it will be made tomorrow morning so as not to result in a repeat performance of last week's fiasco when New Westminster Royals arrived in town only to find their game washed out.

Manager Dave Huggins of the locals will probably field the same team that has performed so well in recent games but the Nanaimo squad will be quite altered from the one that played here in league competition in October.

HAVE NEW GOALIE

Baker will replace Rosen in goal. Leigh and F. Kulai will be at fullback with Johnnie, Menzies and Williams the halfbacks.

Captain Wallace Milligan leads the attack with Rice and Scott flanking the centre forward on the right flank and White and Dunbar patrolling the left side.

Squares are Jansch, Grey and W. Kulai.

For United it will be Bill McAllister in the nets with Murray Speller and John Pickburn on the back line. Len Scott, Red McMillan and Tom Gilchrist will be the halfbacks.

High scoring Tom Druce will centre the forward line with Den McGee at inside left and Ab Travis on the wing. Jack Wilce, Andy Anderson and Jim Morgan will be available for the right side of the attacking unit, with Anderson the likely starter at inside and Wilce on the right flank.

Chick Newman will be one reserve with Morgan the other. There is also a possibility that Nip Sage may return to action in the match.

Suburban Cagers Trim City Teams

McMorran's basketball squads trimmed city teams in a pair of exhibition games at Lake Hill Gym last night.

The intermediate B boys piled up a 24 to 6 first-half lead against the Y.M.C.A. and then held on for a final 36 to 24 decision. K. Marson was high scorer with 12 points. Stan Powell was the best of losers, with 10.

In a low scoring game Donna Brown sparked McMorran's intermediate B girls to a 14 to 8 triumph over Moose. Winners led, 8 to 4, at the half.

Strange Predicts Major Club Tie-up For Spokane Indians

SPOKANE (AP)—Alan Strange, new manager of the Spokane Indians' baseball club, said Thursday the Tribe hopes to have a limited working agreement with a major league team next season.

Spokane hasn't had a big league tie-up since 1947, when it operated under an agreement with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Strange blew into town from the coast yesterday but only stayed long enough to sign a 1950 contract with Roy Hotchkiss, owner of the Western International League club.

Then he took off for Baltimore to attend the minor league meeting which starts there Monday.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, Defence Research Head To Visit City

Director-general of the Defence Research Board at Ottawa, Dr. O. M. Solandt, is scheduled to visit the city Dec. 12 and 13. It was announced by Dr. Fred Sanders, head of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, here addressing the Rotary Club at luncheon Thursday.

Dr. Solandt will address the Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel on Dec. 12. While in the city he will make a tour of the laboratory at H.M.C.S. Dockyard.

Dr. Sanders explained the type of research work done throughout the various laboratories across the Dominion. The Naval Research Establishment at Halifax was currently engaged in studying methods of combatting torpedoes.

Another station, located near Quebec city, was doing research work in connection with explosives, while in Ottawa Dr. Sanders said scientists were studying chemical warfare possibilities and radio propagation. The station at Churchill was known as the "cold-weather station," he said.

At the latter post, refrigeration was the chief object of research. Contrary to the general belief, refrigeration was a serious problem in the Arctic, Dr. Sanders stated.

The Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt was the youngest station established by the Defence Research Board, he continued. The waters of British Columbia were well-suited for research purposes. The speaker said it was hoped to expand the work being done at the dockyard. Dr. Sanders said the University of British Columbia had become interested in oceanography and had instructed a course on the subject this year.

The Men's Guild of St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, will meet in the Guild Hall, Yale Street, next Thursday evening at 8. Election of officers will be held and the speaker will be Archdeacon A. E. L. Nunns.

Three-Way Talks Continue On B.C. Doukhobor Problems

Discussions attended by representatives of the B.C. Police, the federal government and the Canadian Pacific Railway are continuing today in Vancouver on how to combat the Doukhobor uprisings in the southeast section of British Columbia.

The conferences are attended by Commissioner John Shryves of the B.C. Police, F. J. Mead, special consultant to the R.C.M.P. commissioner until his retirement several months ago, who is representing the federal government, and representative of the railway.

Railway tracks have been dynamited in the Kootenay country recently, and the Doukhobor fanatical Sons of Freedom group has been blamed. Patrol cars now are being used to lead trains along the tracks where the danger is considered extreme.

ANNOUNCED IN OTTAWA

Appointment of Mr. Mead was announced today in the House of Commons in Ottawa by Transport Minister Chevrier. Mr. Mead is described as the former No. 2 man of the R.C.M.P. He had retired in Vancouver.

Mr. Chevrier made the announcement in replying to a question of H. W. Herdridge, C.C.F. member for Kootenay West. Mr. Herdridge had read a telegram advising the railway workers at Nelson were refusing to work at night as long as the menace of Doukhobor pillage continued. He asked assurance that the federal government would extend all possible cooperation to the province to protect the people and maintain law and order.

Mr. Chevrier said the federal government wanted to co-operate, provided its police forces were not subjected to responsibility without power.

The Ottawa report said Premier Johnson of British Columbia had asked for federal government help.

N. Ireland Played Big Part In War

The important part played by Northern Ireland in the Second World War, especially when 300,000 American troops were concentrated there before D-Day, was outlined to members of the Irish Protestant Association Thursday night by Robert Gordon, president of the recently-formed group.

Speaking at the Hard of Hearing Hall, Douglas Street, as Prime Minister, had commented on the loyalty of Northern Ireland in wartime.

Mr. Gordon denied rumors that Northern Ireland is being maintained by subsidies from Britain, saying that £237,237,244 had been paid Britain in taxes, and only £42,156,037 had been given British Ulster for services rendered.

It is playing its part in the battle for economic recovery in the United Kingdom, Mr. Gordon said.

Turkey, $1 A Pound

The grand champion bird at the Vancouver Island Turkey Show, held Thursday at National Motors Showroom, proved to be worth its weight in dollar bills.

The 3½-pound bird, entered by Peter Wolfe of Goldstream was auctioned off at the conclusion of the show and was sold for $35.50. High bidder was John C. Stuart, city butcher.

Mr. Stuart has made a habit of purchasing the champion bird at each year's show. He displays the bird in the window of his B.C. Protestant Orphanage for Christmas.

Saanich Districts Flood

Heavy downpour of rain overnight climaxed two weeks of continual wet weather with flooding of low-lying districts in Saanich. Colquitz River overflowed banks in Marigold district. Picture shows lake-like scene off Interurban Road near Marigold Road where river bed is tangle of willows and brush. Many houses in district have water in basements. Damage from flooding throughout area is comparatively light, however.

Section of Blenkinsop Road on way to Cordova Bay is under water. Motorists as well as pedestrians are demanding clearance of clogged ditches by municipality to take water away. Large areas of farms are flooded and roads being reconstructed under big Saanich program started this fall are being damaged. Graders were at work today smoothing half-finished roads to which rain has brought potholes and washboard surfaces.

Fields off Cedar Hill Cross Road near Shelbourne Street in Mount Tolmie area are under water. Ground is saturated and water cannot get away. Houses nearby are threatened. There were similar scenes last February when heavy rains followed freezing weather. Ground at that time was frozen and flooding occurred much sooner than it has at this time.

Anscomb Announces Sale Of $15,000,000 Worth B.C. Bonds

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb has announced the sale of $15,000,000 worth of B.C. bonds at an interest rate of 4.15 per cent.

The money will be used for the province's highway and bridge building program and for University of British Columbia buildings.

The successful tenderer was a syndicate headed by Mill Spence and Company Ltd., which included the Bank of Montreal, Bell Guinlock, McLeod Young and Company, McMahon and Burns.

Two other bids were received from syndicates involving 29 financial houses. These bids represented interest rates of 3.184 and 3.222.

The bids were 20-year maturity. Mr. Anscomb commented that the price obtained for the current issue was very satisfactory considering the condition of the market.

To Ship Man-Biting Dog Out Of Province

Bernard Nixon, 1237 Hillside Avenue, owner of a police dog which is alleged to have bitten Edwin Crabb, 2133 Ridge Road, on the leg Nov. 19, reported to Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today that he was shipping the dog out of the province.

Magistrate Hall remanded the case to Dec. 5 to hear from Nixon if this had been done.

By-laws Prevent Union Of Groups Of Civil Servants

Affiliation of the active and retired civil servants' association has been held unconstitutional under the associations' by-laws, H. A. Carney, secretary of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Provincial Government Employees' Association, reported here Thursday.

Addressing the B.C. Retired Civil Servants' Association, Mr. Carney said that at the recent convention of his organization in Penticton the Victoria branch had moved a motion in favor of affiliation of the two groups.

Active civil servants, he said, desired to do anything possible to help those on retirement and as proof of this they have twice presented to the provincial cabinet a request that retired workers be paid a cost of living bonus on a sliding scale. He said that at the present this would amount to $15 per month for all. The government, however, has rejected the demands of retired civil servants, claiming its contract with the retired civil servants had been completed and it had no further responsibility.

Mr. Carney said that the civil servants would continue to press for the benefit of those in the retired ranks.

C. F. Chitty and F. H. Davey were elected as a nominating committee to draft a slate of officers for 1950.

High Winds Bring Chimney Fires

High winds this morning resulted in city firemen responding to four alarms for chimney fires between 7.18 and 8.50. The fires were at 2534 Scott Street, 1782 Chandler Street, 57 Cook Street and 915 Pembroke Street.

Saanich firemen put out a similar fire at Burnside and Qu'Appelle Street and shortly after another on Audley Street. City firemen put out a fire in the front seat upholstery of a car opposite 2614 Bridge Street Friday afternoon.

Monthly meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held in the City Hall next Tuesday at 7.30. E. W. White, supervising horticulturist, B.C. Department of Agriculture, will speak on and demonstrate the pruning of fruit trees.

Best Turkey Shown By Goldstream Man

Aggregate honors at this year's Vancouver Island dressed turkey show, held in Victoria Thursday, went to Peter Wolfe of Goldstream.

Wolfe won the top prize in the show with a 3½-pound broad-breasted bronze tom, which was judged to be the grand champion bird in the show, and took prizes for the best pair of toms and the best box of toms.

C. E. Whitney-Griffiths, Metchocin, was awarded two first prizes for exhibiting the best female turkey and the best box of hens, while Mrs. N. McCulloch of Langford was awarded top prize for her exhibit in the class for pairs of hens.

Nat Eccleston, Wellington, received first prize for showing the best box of beltsville white turkeys.

The show this year drew more than 300 entries, with exhibits coming from as far away as Courtenay.

Smash Up, Steal Equipment In Air Cadet Headquarters

Thieves who broke into headquarters building of No. 89 (Kinsmen) Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron at Macaulay Camp during this week left the place in a "terribly damaged condition," according to Ted Boulton, squadron commander.

Esquimalt Police and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are investigating the case. The Link Trainer used to teach cadets instrument flying was badly damaged and will be out of commission for a time.

A Verney pistol and rounds of ammunition were stolen, also two aircraft instruments.

Every door had been jimmied open. In the uniform room equipment was scattered all over the floor. Link Trainer remote control instruments were smashed. After scattering projection slides on the floor oil was poured over them. Ink was liberally smeared over everything in sight.

A plea of not guilty was entered by James E. Pompilio, 167 Bushby Street, to a charge of careless driving when he appeared in city police court today. Charge arose from an accident Nov. 28.

Salary Slash Urged For Civil Servants, Carney Reports

A move in Victoria business circles to have the provincial government reduce salaries of its civil servants was reported Thursday by H. A. Carney, secretary of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Provincial Government Employees' Association.

Mr. Carney, during an address to the B.C. Retired Civil Servants Association, said the association would fight this move to the last ditch. He indicated that objection to the present salary schedules for provincial civil servants was taken by businessmen because they were too high for private business to compete with.

While admitted there were some discrepancies, Mr. Carney said the association itself urged the government to exercise stricter supervision over civil service workers. He said it was the desire of everyone that they should earn their pay.

The association's strength, he continued, now was 7,000 throughout the province. Of the 2,400 civil servants in Victoria, well over 1,800 were in the organization, he said, and it was expected that the Victoria membership would soon exceed 2,000.

Retired Servants Urged Rent Control

The B.C. Retired Civil Servants' Association has added its name to the list of organizations advocating provincial rent control should the federal government relinquish its controls.

The association, meeting Thursday afternoon, passed a resolution to that effect. Similar action had already been taken by the Canadian Legion, several trade union groups and the C.C.F.

Latest Hooper Polls Hint Giveaways Are Giving Way

NEW YORK (NANA)—The giveaways are giving way—at least, signs of it seemed visible today. Indicative, if not vastly important, is the fact that "Stop the Music!" has ceased to state the total value of its radio and television jackpots.

Moreover, its radio Hooperating is 'way down from the peak point, and the Hoopers of other big giveaways have fallen, as well as the average of the ratings for all such shows.

Some folks in radio wonder whether exclusion of a stated dollar total for the "Stop the Music!" jackpot means that its producers are de-emphasizing the giveaway gimmick of the program, whether they would be glad to drop it if they could find a distinctive substitute.

TASTE MIGHT CHANGE
When the Federal Communications Commission began making threatening gestures toward programs which use prizes to catch and hold audiences, it was often predicted that before red tape could be unwound to permit a lethal legal blow, a change in public taste might kill the shows.

This may be happening, and producers of this type of program might like to get out of the trough of this wave before it subsides entirely.

"Stop the Music!" had a radio Hooper of 14.4 in October, 1948, and 7.6 in September. It is the principal giveaway of the American Broadcasting Company. It has become almost trite to say, "I like 'Stop the Music!'" until they stop the music. It is particularly on television, an entertaining show without the telephone call of persons asked to identify the tunes just halted, and the mystery melody. With some different novel feature to set it off from any other variety program, it might do well without the phoning.

"Hit the Jack Pot," the Columbia Broadcasting System's main giveaway, fell from 9.1 to 7.6, comparing the two Octobers.

NEVER GOT GOOD START
"Hollywood Calling," the National Broadcasting Company's luxurious effort in the giveaway field, began late and never got a good start. It should be noted, however, that in a recent month when it registered a pitiable Hooper, under 3, a sponsor expressed satisfaction at the way in which people were buying watches which were advertised only by "H. C." commercials.

The average Hoopers of all sponsored giveaway shows on networks for the last five months, comparing this year and 1948, went this way:

	1948	1949
June	8.4	6.8
July	6.5	6.2
August	8.0	5.5
September	8.4	6.5
October	9.9	7.8

In both years there was an upturn when the end of summer doldrums brought better shows of all sorts back to the air, but the 1949 figures are well below those of 1948, and even one-tenth of a point is a big figure in the averages.

IDEA OVERDONE

One reason that giveaways have slumped may be that the idea, once it clicked, was seized up so strongly. Many a program added a giveaway feature. It seemed that only symphony orchestra and opera programs didn't get interrupted to offer a brand-new bicycle tire and a year's supply of air to the bright listener who could tell the name of the man often called "The father of his country" by George! You ought to guess this—don't wash out on it!—Not Christopher Columbus, but try again.

There's a tiring point for anything. Kate Smith's radio show has dropped its jackpot, and so has "Pick a Date with Buddy Rogers." They aren't the only ones getting away from giving away.

Boston Symphony Not 'Object Of Art,' Declares Moscow

WASHINGTON (NANA)—The National Arts Foundation is campaigning for government support of the arts—but its experience with the Russians doesn't suggest that this is much good.

That, anyway, would be the impression to be derived from references made by foundation director Carleton Smith today in connection with the visit of former opera star Mary Garden. Miss Garden stressed that—for lack, it would seem, of popular and governmental support of the arts here in the United States—six compositions of the great German composer Richard Strauss never have been presented here; we have but one opera house of major stature in the country, as opposed to France's 20; in 300 years, Harvard has not turned out a single outstanding musical composition.

The foundation also plans to encourage international artist exchanges. But there has been no success with regard to Russia in this respect, said Smith, although "we have made every effort to collaborate with Russia."

"I spent six months in Moscow in 1946 and met with Volks, the Soviet cultural set-up. They said they would be 'delighted' to hear the Boston Symphony Orchestra with Serge Koussevitzky, and we tried to get them to bring in the Boston Symphony. But the Russian embassy in Washington would not co-operate. We had word that they would only exchange objects of art."

Smith "did not feel" that exchange of artists with Russia could take place until their ideas changed on use of art as a propaganda medium.

Rates On Foreign Currencies Up With Christmas Demand

NEW YORK (NANA)—Christmas demand for foreign currency notes in this market, for the account of remittances to relatives of persons here, probably will lift quotations for sterling and other foreign money slightly before this year ends—but, in these days of airmail, most remitters put off their buying until the last minute, William Holzman of William Holzman & Co., said today.

Pending a pickup in demand by tourists, which is seasonal, he said remittances to relatives abroad were the principal purpose for which currencies traded here can be used.

Remitters of foreign cash abroad are still bound by limitations imposed by the respective foreign governments upon the amount that can be brought in. In the case of Great Britain the limit is £5; if more than that amount is sent by mail, and if it should be discovered, the excess over £5 would be confiscated.

NOT DETECTED

It is not believed that foreign inspectors do more than spot check incoming mail; hence much of the currency sent in illegal amounts is not detected. Some remitters send only £5, but correspond with relatives frequently, inclosing some money each time.

In the case of France, the limit upon currency imports is 60,000 francs, or about $160 at the price at which Bank of France notes can be had here.

Belgium is one of the few nations of the world that recently removed all restrictions and made the Belgian unit convertible freely into dollars. As a result, there is too small a discount on Belgian bank notes to make dealings in the currency worth while. The Belgian currency price is 1.98 cents; the open market rate is 2 cents.

Bank of England notes are quoted $2.48 to $2.50, which compares with an open market rate for regular drafts or cable been little change lately in Bank transfers of $2.80. There has been a slight change in the value of England notes; just after devaluation, they were quoted nearer the official rate.

MANY PLACE NAMES CAME FROM INDIAN LANGUAGES
Hundreds of cities, villages, lakes and rivers have Indian names. These places are located in all parts of the New World, from Canada to Argentina. The Ojibway, or Chippewa, Indians called the narrow part of a good-sized lake "Manito Bau," meaning "Spirit Strait." From that, it appears, came the name of Lake Manitoba and of the province of Manitoba as well. Ottawa bears the name of an Indian tribe. This tribe had its chief home in the Georgian Bay area, but members of it often made trips to the Ottawa river. "Ottawa" came from a word meaning "to trade." Among the many cities in the United States with Indian names are Omaha, Wichita, Cheyenne, Peoria, Spokane, Chicago, Chattanooga and Minneapolis. American states with Indian names include Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Utah, Missouri, Idaho, the Dakotas, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Wyoming and Oklahoma. In Latin America many important names came from the Spanish or Portuguese languages, but others arose from

Indian words. Mexico's name goes back to the Indians, and so do the names of scores of cities and villages in Mexico. The English language has taken over various Indian words. These include hammock, tomato, squash, hurricane, toboggan, moccasin, moose, coyote and caribou. Indians of South America and of the West Indies appear to have been the first people anywhere to use hammocks. In telling about an event during his first voyage to the New World, Christopher Columbus wrote this note: "A great many Indians in canoes came to the ship today to trade their cotton, and the 'hamacas,' or nets, in which they sleep." That is believed to be the first time in history that white men saw hammocks. Since then, the hammock has come into widespread use over the world.

BUT LET HIM TELL YOU HIS AMAZING STORY - NOW BY A

Chemist's $6 A Week Existence Issue In Pension Controversy

By RALPH DIGHTON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Albert Enoch, 57-year-old chemist, has been living for some years now in an economic twilight which he calls "the far side of the sun."

He gets along—adequately and without complaint—on a total of $6 a week. He earns the $6 himself.

Until a few weeks ago Enoch had resigned himself to obscure poverty. He set but one condition for the remaining years of his life—financial independence.

How he attained that goal—on six self-earned dollars a week—was one of those human-interest stories that go unnoticed in a busy metropolis.

Then his modest design for existence suddenly became a cause celebre—an issue in California's current pension controversy.

"The pensioners in the hotel where I live jumped all over me the day the newspaper carried a story about my $6-a-week budget," Enoch says. "I used to have a lot of friends at the hotel. Now I haven't any."

"They say my $6-a-week, for which I am indebted to no one, makes their $75-a-month state-paid pension look a little like a fraud. Well, what's done is done. I meant no harm."

His carefully-planned budget for staple foods comes to only $1.50 a week. It consists of small eggs, bacon ends, evaporated milk, ground meat, fish, honey, peanut butter and coffee. He also buys a sack of tobacco and has about 20 cents left over from the $1.50.

HOTEL ROOM CHEAP

His only other expense is $3.75 a week for a hotel room.

"When my leg doesn't bother me," says Enoch, "I walk to the wholesale market and get my vegetables free. After 10 o'clock in the morning you can salvage considerable fruit and vegetables from the big containers where they put produce that is unsaleable, but still good."

"Today I got onions, potatoes, celery, carrots, lettuce, peppers, corn and grapes."

"From the Salvation Army anyone may get bread and cakes for the asking. I work for my clothes at a church. You can get a good free haircut in the basement of the Union Rescue Mission, although I usually try to give the barber a quarter. They also have facilities there to press your clothes and take a bath. I find enough odd jobs to earn about $2 over my room rent and that's all I need."

Ex-Railwayman Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—B. T. (Ben) Chappell, 72, a pioneer Canadian railway man, who retired from Canadian National Railway service in 1942, died here Wednesday, started with the C.N.R. in Winnipeg in 1895 and was appointed Saskatchewan general superintendent in 1919. He held the same post for British Columbia from 1929 to 1936 and from then until his retirement he was general superintendent of the Manitoba division.

"Of course, you have to stuff your pride up your sleeves and adjust to living on the other side." "The other side," Enoch says, means the areas of any city where the poor live.

"It's another world, a world of the aged and lonely who sit in rockers and talk about politics or the past; of the people who wear old clothes and whom you don't see when you pass them on the street; a hemisphere on the far side of the sun, where the inhabitants get less than their share of the warmth."

Chinese Reds Warn Against Sheltering Chiang Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has received a Chinese Communist warning against sheltering fleeing Nationalist leaders.

Officials said today the notice was issued by Foreign Minister Chou En-lai of the Communist "People's government" and was addressed directly to France and other countries with territory bordering China. Copies of Chou's letter were distributed to representatives of other governments remaining in Communist China.

Chou's warning said that "any country which gives shelter to the Kuomintang reactionary armed forces must be held responsible for its action and bear the responsibility for all the ensuing consequences."

EDMONTON (CP)—Bernie Bathgate, starry centre of Edmonton Flyers in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, received hospital attention Thursday night after a tendon in his wrist was cut during practice.

Recover Much Of Stolen Property; Youths Aged 16

Said to be responsible for at least four of the city home robberies of the last week in which considerable wanton damage was committed, two 16-year-old boys were arrested today by city detectives.

The arrests culminated several days of close investigations by plainclothesmen and Juvenile Officer Arthur Rudge into the series of home burglaries since last Friday night, Inspector Harry Mercer, chief of detectives, reported.

The two boys are big for their age.

Lewis Rejects Federal Judge To Run Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis again refused today to accept former Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson as a trustee of the Miners' Welfare Fund.

Dawson had been designated as the board member representing the operators.

Senator Bridges (R-N.H.), the "neutral" trustee, voted today in favor of seating Dawson. Lewis, for the United Mine Workers, voted against it, and Dawson's vote in favor of his own acceptance was rejected by Lewis.

Dawson promised a statement later on his next step to try to take his post.

Because of the deadlock a move by Lewis to resume full pension and other welfare payments to miners from the fund was blocked.

Neither was Bridges able to put over a motion to stop emergency payments to hospitalized miners now being made from the fund.

Sea Too Rough For West Van's Ferry

VANCOUVER (CP)—The wind-lashed Burrard Inlet was too rough today for the emergency ferry service to flood-swept West Vancouver.

Big waves were whipped up by a strong westerly blow and the service was canceled before noon.

Operators hope, however, to resume sailings by mid-afternoon.

Small vessels with log booms and scows ran to shelter from open water along the coast to escape the high winds.

GLASGOW (UP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw told a reporter of the Glasgow Weekly Forward today that pacifists, too should join the army and "shoot or be shot."

"Pacifists should do all they can to prevent war, but if it nevertheless breaks out, it is too late to do anything but fight," Shaw wrote in answer to a question from the Scottish reporter.

"A country that engages in war, rightly or wrongly, is like a ship that has struck a breaker and is sinking," Shaw wrote. "The order must be all hands to the pumps no matter how faulty or wicked the navigators have been. You and your neighbors must shoot or be shot."

Stranded 'Carmen'

Despite the smile, Mona Bradford, 28, said she is "embarrassed and humiliated" because the touring operatic company into which she sank six weeks' back pay failed to join her for a performance in Nashville, Tenn.

The fiery "Carmen" is stranded and gnashing her teeth without a rose because the opera company apparently went broke in mid-tour.
